This guide to voting contains everything you need to know about how to have your say on polling day.

An important message...

On Saturday 27 November 1999 New Zealanders will go to the polls to vote.

Under the MMP electoral system you get 2 votes: one for the political party of your choice and one for the candidate you would prefer to represent your electorate. At this election you will also be asked to cast your vote on 2 Referenda questions.

The Chief Electoral Office works very hard to provide sufficient polling places within your own electorate for you to be able to participate in this democratic event. All voters are encouraged to cast an ordinary vote within their own electorate on polling day because casting an ordinary vote saves you time, it's easier and your vote will be counted on election night. Special voting facilities are, of course, available if you vote outside your electorate.

This election is being held using new electoral boundaries, so check this guide to see the polling places listed for your electorate.

Please ensure you vote at this election and remember – save time – vote in your own electorate.

*Phil Whelan, Chief Electoral Officer, Chief Electoral Office
Level 12, Charles Fergusson Building, Bowen Street, Wellington, New Zealand*

Our voting system

Our voting system is called MMP (Mixed Member Proportional).

Under MMP, Parliament's 120 MPs are elected as either electorate MPs or as list MPs. You have 2 votes:

Your Party Vote

This vote is for the registered political party you most want to be represented in Parliament. All voters choose between the same parties, whether they are enrolled for a General Electorate or for a Maori Electorate.

Your Electorate Vote

This vote is for the individual you most want as your electorate MP. The candidate who gets the most votes in each of the 67 electorates becomes the MP for that electorate.

Party List

The Party List in this publication shows candidates in the order the party wants them elected.

You have 2 votes

Party Vote

In general, decides the total number of seats for each party.

YOU HAVE 2 VOTES

Electorate Vote

Decides who will be your electorate MP.

The Voting System

To Qualify

A party qualifies for parliamentary seats by winning either at least 5% of Party Votes or a General or Maori electorate seat.

Parliament

List Seats

These are added to a party's electorate seats so it has the correct number of seats it is entitled to based on its Party Votes.

Electorate Seats

Filled by the candidates who win the most votes in each of the 67 electorates.

When and Where to Vote...

...on Polling Day

Ordinary Voting

Who can: Anyone whose name is on the electoral roll, who votes at a polling place listed under their electorate name in this booklet.

When: Between 9 am and 7 pm on Saturday 27 November 1999.

Where: Attend any polling place listed under your electorate name in this booklet.

Voting papers: Simply state your full name and address. You will then be given your voting papers. Cast one vote for the political party of your choice and one for your preferred candidate to represent your electorate. You will also be issued with voting papers for the 2 referenda questions.

Special Voting

Who can: Anyone who is enrolled, and where one of the following grounds applies:

- Anyone whose name is not on the electoral roll and who believes it should be, can ask for a special vote.
- Anyone who is outside their electorate on Saturday 27 November 1999.
- Anyone who is ill or infirm and cannot get to a polling place.
- Anyone who can satisfy a Returning Officer or Deputy Returning Officer by application that going to a polling place would cause hardship or serious inconvenience.

When: Between 9 am and 7 pm on Saturday 27 November 1999.

Where: Attend at any polling place within New Zealand on Saturday 27 November 1999 or obtain voting papers (through an agent).

Voting papers: You will need to complete a special vote declaration indicating one of the above grounds and have it witnessed before you can be issued with your voting papers.

Māori Roll Voting

Who Can: Anyone whose name is on the Māori roll.

When: Between 9 am and 7 pm on Saturday 27 November 1999.

Where: Attend any Māori polling place listed under your Māori electorate name in this booklet, or any other polling place listed.

How it works: If you go to a Māori polling place in your electorate simply state your full name and address to be given your voting papers. Your votes will be counted on polling day.

If you go to any other polling place within your electorate you will be issued with a Tangata Whenua form to complete, and then your voting papers. Voting outside of your electorate will require a special vote. Tangata Whenua votes and special votes will be counted after polling day.

...before Polling Day

Who can: If you cannot attend a polling place in your electorate on polling day, you can cast a vote before polling day if:

- you will be outside your electorate or overseas
- your name is not on the printed roll
- an illness or infirmity prevents you from attending a polling place
- your religion does not allow you to vote on a Saturday
- or if you can satisfy a Returning Officer or Issuing Officer that going to a polling place would cause you hardship or serious inconvenience.

When: By close of business on Friday 26 November 1999.

Where: Returning Officers in each electorate will have one or more issuing office(s) where you can vote.

- The days and times that some of these will be open will vary from electorate to electorate.
- Contact your Returning Officer during office hours at the number listed in this booklet under your electorate, or ring the Freephone Information Hotline on 0800 800 610.

How it works: You can vote at the issuing office in person or voting papers can be obtained for you through an agent, or by post.

Hospital, Resthome and Institution Voting

Who can: As far as practicable Returning Officers will provide facilities for eligible electors who are in hospitals, or rest homes up until polling day.

When: In the last two weeks before Saturday 27 November 1999.

Where: At your hospital, rest home etc.

How it works: Mobile polling staff will visit the above places on a date and time which has been pre-arranged with the management.

Local Restoration Voting Papers

Voters who reside within the boundaries of No-Licence Districts may vote in a Local Restoration Poll. These are held in conjunction with the General Election. In a Local Restoration Poll voters are asked whether they wish to restore liquor licencing or continue with restrictions on liquor outlets. There are currently 3 No-licence districts, Eden and Roskill in Auckland and Tawa in Wellington. The boundaries of the No-licence Districts do not follow electorate boundaries.

What happens on Election night?

It's 7 pm .... close the booth!

Polling officials break the seal and open the ballot boxes, then sort and count the votes. Any informal votes (where the voters intention is not clear) are placed aside.

All polling places count and report their results to their local returning officer who in turn relays these to the Election Night Results Centre in Wellington.

Between 8pm and 11pm on election night attention will focus on the Results Centre. The preliminary count of ordinary votes only (not including special votes or Tangata Whenua votes) will be progressively received and made available to news media as it comes to hand. Preliminary results for the 2 Referenda will also be provided. Television and radio commentators will report these results to you. The press will prepare reports for the Sunday and Monday editions of the metropolitan and provincial newspapers.

Typically, these preliminary results cover about 90% of all votes cast at the election. They often indicate which electorate candidate has won in each of the 67 electorates, and may indicate the total number of seats each party is likely to have. This is called the provisional result.

But the final count cannot be completed until all the special votes and Tangata Whenua votes are received and checked in the 10 days following the election. The final results therefore are not known with certainty until the official count is concluded in all electorates.

It is only after all successful electorate candidates have been declared elected and the total support is known for each party, that allocation of list seats will be final. So the make-up of Parliament will not be official until about two weeks after the election.

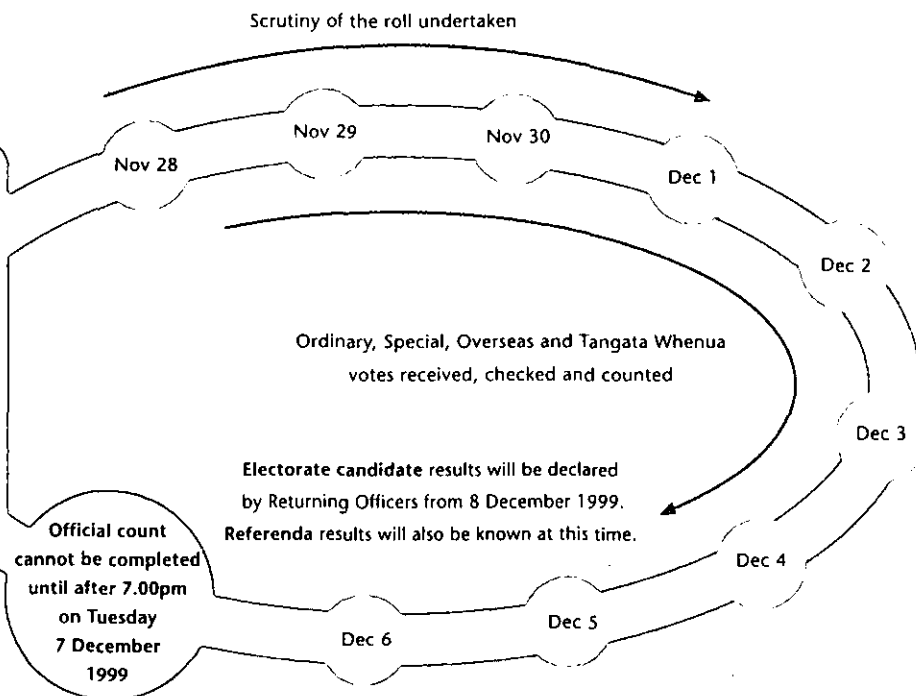

The same applies to the indicative referenda results. See page 5 for more detail on the MMP Electoral System.

Special votes cast overseas close at 4pm (local time) on the day before polling day in NZ (Friday 26 November 1999)

POLLING DAY SATURDAY 27 November 1999

Only Ordinary Votes cast in New Zealand are counted on polling day. At 7pm the poll closes & counting starts. From around 8.00pm preliminary results start to be received

Comprehensive results coverage available live on TV and Radio. Provisional election results will be available live on www.electionresults.govt.nz

Party vote results will be known after all 67 Returning Officers have declared their results and advised these to the Chief Electoral Office. The Chief Electoral Officer then determines the distribution of the party list seats.

IT'S YOUR VOTE.
USE IT.

Some common questions

1. How do I enrol? Enrol at any PostShop up until the close of business on Friday 26 November 1999.

2. Can I vote if my name is not on the printed electoral roll? Yes, you can cast a special vote for the electorate in which you last resided continuously for a period of one month.

---

3. How do I know which electorate I'm in? Check this guide for maps of electorates in your area. If you are not on the printed roll for an electorate you will have to cast a special vote.

---

4. When can I vote? Polling booths are open for voting from 9am to 7pm on Saturday 27 November 1999.

---

5. How many votes do I have? Everyone gets two votes for the parliamentary election. Both of these votes are made on the same voting paper. Your party vote is for the political party you most want to be represented in Parliament. Your electorate vote is for the candidate you want to be the MP for your electorate. You also get one vote for each of the two Citizens Initiated Referenda.

6. How do I cast my votes? On polling day go to a polling booth listed in your electorate and state your full name and address; you will then be given voting papers. On your ballot paper tick the party you prefer for your party vote and the candidate you prefer for your electorate vote. On your Indicative Referenda papers tick the answers you prefer. It's that simple. See pages 8 and 10 for examples of the voting papers.

---

7. How are my votes counted? See page 7 of this Guide.

---

8. What if I won't be in my electorate on polling day? You have two choices. You can vote before polling day by going to your local electorate issuing office, or make a special vote at any issuing office. Alternatively you can make a special vote at any polling place in New Zealand on polling day.

9. What if I can't get to a polling booth on polling day? If you can satisfy your local electorate Issuing Officer that getting to a polling booth will cause you serious hardship or inconvenience you may be able to cast a special vote before the election.

10. What is a Tangata Whenua vote? It is a vote cast by a person on the Māori roll within their electorate but at a polling place that is not listed for their electorate in this guide. Tangata Whenua votes will be counted, along with special votes, after polling day. See the Māori Roll Voting information on page 6.

---

11. When will I know the result of the election? A provisional result will be known on election night but a final official result will not be known until about two weeks after the election.

12. Where can I find out about the election results? Generally television channels and radio stations provide coverage on election night and newspapers provide extensive coverage the day after. Results will also be available on the Internet <http://www.electionresults.govt.nz>. There is also a general information website at <http://www.elections.org.nz>

---

13. What role do Scrutineers play? Scrutineers are appointed in writing by electorate candidates to observe the conduct of an election. They are permitted to sit beside polling day staff and record who has voted. They must not communicate with voters. Scrutineers are entitled to wear rosettes bearing the party's name, emblem slogan or logo. Scrutineers will be identified by an orange 'scrutineer' badge.
