PREAMBLE

Thailand has been under the rule of democratic government with the King as head of the state for more than 75 years, during which several constitutions were promulgated and amended. To ensure suitability with the situation in the country and change of time and by virtue of the provisions of the Constitution of the Kingdom of Thailand (Interim Edition) of B.E. 2549 on the establishment of the Constitutional Drafting Assembly and Constitution Drafting Committee in charge of drafting a new Constitution to direct the guidance for the administration of the country in the future, and people have been allowed to extensively express their views and opinions about the new charter. Views and opinions of the people have been gathered for use in drafting of the new Constitution as prescribed by the Constitution of the Kingdom of Thailand (Interim Edition) of B.E. 2549.

The major objectives of the new draft Constitution are to further promote and protect people's right and liberty, encourage people's roles and participation in the administration of the country, concretely check and cross-examine the use of the state power; provide the mechanisms of political institution in both the legislative and administrative branches with well-balanced and effective under the democratic parliamentary form of administration; support honesty and impartial operations of courts and independent organizations; and above all, to emphasize the values and significance of morality, ethics and good governance as virtuous guidance for the country's affairs.

After the completion of drafting of the new Constitution, the Constitution Drafting Assembly has presented the draft charter to the people and held a referendum, the first of its kind in the country, to allow them to vote whether to approve this whole constitution. The referendum result is that the majority of the eligible voters who have come to vote approved for the enactment of this newly draft constitution.

President of the National Legislative Assembly has graciously presented this draft constitution to the King for His signature for its enactment as the Constitution of the Kingdom of Thailand. With the King's opinion, the royal permission has been granted in compliance to the approval of majority of the people.

By the Royal Command, this Constitution of the Kingdom of Thailand is now enacted to replace the Constitution of the Kingdom of Thailand (Interim Edition) of B.E. 2549, dated October 1, B.E. 2549, as of this announcement day.

Be Thai people in harmony and unity in order to maintain this Constitution of Kingdom of Thailand as to its will to maintain the democratic regime for the happiness of all Thai people.

The replacing senator shall serve only for the remainder of the term of whom he or she has replaced. In the case where the remainder of the said term is less than one hundred and eighty days, there may not be an election or a selection of a senator to fill the vacancy.

Section 121. In the case where the Senate shall consider having a person hold any position under provisions of this Constitution, a committee shall be appointed by the Senate to examine past records, behaviors, and moral conducts of the person nominated for holding such position, and to gather necessary facts and evidence to be reported to the Senate for its further consideration.

The proceeding by the committee under paragraph one shall be in accordance with the Rules of Procedure of the Senate.

Part 4

Provisions Applicable To Both Houses

Section 122. Members of the House of Representatives and senators are representatives of the Thai people, and shall honestly perform the duties for the common interest of the Thai people. Not bound by any assigned mandate, nor dominated by political influence, they shall carry out their duties for the benefits of the people honestly, faithfully, and free from conflict of interest.

Section 123. Before taking office, a member of the House of Representatives and a Senator shall make a solemn declaration at a sitting of the House of which he or she is a member in the following words:

"I, (name of the declarer), do solemnly declare that I will perform my duties in accordance with the honest dictates of my conscience for the common interest of the Thai people. I will also uphold and observe the Constitution of the Kingdom of Thailand in every respect."

This unofficial translation has been provided by IFES Thailand and the Political Section and Public Diplomacy Office of the US Embassy-Bangkok.

Section 124. The House of Representatives and the Senate shall each have one President and one or two Vice-Presidents who are appointed by the King from the members of such House in accordance with its resolution.

The President and the Vice Presidents of the House of Representatives hold office until the expiration of the term or the dissolution of the House.

The President and the Vice-Presidents of the Senate hold office until the day preceding the date of the election the new President and Vice-Presidents.

The President and the Vice-Presidents of the House of Representatives and the President and the Vice-Presidents of the Senate vacate office before the expiration of the term of office under paragraph two or paragraph three, as the case may be, upon:

- (1) loss of membership of the House of which he or she is a member;
- (2) resignation;
- (3) holding a position of Prime Minister, Minister or other political official;
- (4) being sentenced by a judgment to imprisonment even if the judgment is not final or regardless whether the sentence is a suspended or not, except for negligence, minor offences, or defamation.

While in office, the President or Vice-Presidents of the House of Representatives cannot be an executive or hold any position in a political party.

Section 125. The President of the House of Representatives and the President of the Senate shall have the powers and duties to perform the functions of their respective House according to rules and regulations. The Vice-Presidents shall have the powers and duties as assigned by the President and shall act on his or her behalf during his or her absence or when the President is unable to perform duty.

The President of the House of Representatives, the President of the Senate, and their surrogate shall perform their duties impartially.

When the President and Vice-Presidents of the House of Representatives or of the Senate are not at the sitting, members of the respective House shall elect from among themselves someone to preside over that meeting.

Section 126. To have a quorum, the sitting of the House of Representatives and of the Senate must have a presence of no less than one-half of the existing members in their respective House except during interpellation under Section 156 and Section 157. The House of Representatives and the Senate may specify the rule of quorum otherwise.

A vote on consultative issues shall be based on a simple majority unless otherwise required by this Constitution.

Each member shall have one vote. If the votes are equal, the President at the sitting shall have the casting vote.

The President of the National Assembly, the President of the House of Representatives and the President of the Senate shall arrange to have the vote of each member recorded and disclose those records in places where the public may inspect, unless it is a secret ballot.

Voting to select or to express approval for a person in any position shall be made in secret unless the provisions of this Constitution require otherwise. Members are free and not bound by his or her political party's resolution or other mandate.

Section 127. Within 30 days from a general election of the House of Representatives, a sitting of the National Assembly shall be convoked so that the members can have their first sitting. Each year there shall be an ordinary general session and an ordinary legislative session. The day of the first sitting under paragraph one shall mark the beginning of the ordinary general session while the first day of the ordinary legislative session shall be left to the House of Representatives to decide. Sitting for the first time under paragraph one, if there remain fewer than 150 days to the end of the calendar year, it is possible not to have an ordinary legislative session in that particular year.

During the legislative ordinary session, the National Assembly shall hold a sitting only in such cases as prescribed in Chapter 2 or in cases of the consideration of bills or organic law bills, the approval of an Emergency Decree, the approval of the declaration of war, the approval of a treaty, the election or approval of a person for holding office, the removal of a person from office, the interpellation and the amendment of the Constitution, unless the National Assembly has passed a resolution, by the votes of more than one-half of the total number of the existing members of both Houses, for considering other matters.

It is permissible to prorogue the general ordinary session less than 120 day subject to the approval of the National Assembly.

Section 128. The King convokes the National Assembly, opens and prorogues its session.

The King may be present to perform the opening ceremony of the first general ordinary session under section 127 paragraph one or may command the Heir to the Throne who is sui juris or any person to perform the ceremony as His Representative.

In the interest of the public, the King may convoke the National Assembly to an extraordinary sitting.

Convocation, extension of sessions, and proroguing them shall be effected by Royal Decree under Section 129.

Section 129. Members of both Houses or members of the House of Representatives of not less than one-third of the total number of the existing members of both Houses have the right to present their petition to the King for the issuance of a Royal Command convoking an extraordinary session of the National Assembly.

The petition referred to in paragraph one shall be lodged with the President of the National Assembly.

This unofficial translation has been provided by IFES Thailand and the Political Section and Public Diplomacy Office of the US Embassy-Bangkok.

The President of the National Assembly shall submit the petition to the King and countersign his Royal Command thereof.

Section 130. At the meeting of the House of Representatives and of the Senate or at a joint meeting of the National Assembly, a member may use words or make statements expressing views or vote as a matter of absolute privilege. No person shall be permitted to use it as cause for legal action.

The privilege under paragraph one does not give immunity to the member who speaks at the meeting with radio or TV coverage, specifically if the utterances appear elsewhere than the National Assembly's premises, are criminally offensive or infringe the rights of other persons who are not Ministers or members of that particular Chamber.

In the circumstances under paragraph two, if a member says something that may cause damage to a person or persons who are not Ministers or members of that House, the President of the House shall arrange a public explanation in the way demanded by the injured party and within the time limit under the rules of meeting of that particular House, without prejudice to his or her rights to sue.

The protection of the privilege under this Section shall extend to publishers and advertisers of the proceedings of the meeting in accordance with the regulations of the House of Representatives, the Senate, or the National Assembly as the case may be. It shall also extend to the person who the President allowed to speak or express views at the sitting, as well as to the licensed broadcasters and telecasters mutatis mutandis.

Section 131. No member of the House of Representatives or senator shall, during a session, be arrested, detained or summoned by a warrant for inquiry as the suspect in a criminal case unless permission of the House of which he or she is a member is obtained or he or she is arrested in flagrante delicto.

In the case where a member of the House of Representatives or a senator has been arrested in flagrante delicto, it shall be forthwith reported to the President of the House of which he or she is a member and such President may order the release of the person so arrested.

In the case where a criminal charge is brought against a member of the House of Representatives or a senator, whether the House is in session or not, the Court shall not try the case during a session, unless permission of the House of which he or she is a member is obtained or it is a case concerning the organic Act on the Election of Members of the House of Representatives and the Taking of Office of Senators, the organic Act on the Election Commission, the organic Act on Political Parties; provided that the trial of the Court shall not hinder such member from attending the sitting of the House.

The trial and jurisdiction of the Court conducted before it is invoked that the accused is a member of either House are valid.

If a member of the House of Representatives or a senator is detained during the inquiry or trial before the beginning of a session, when the session begins, the inquiry official or the Court, as the case may be, must order his or her release as soon as the President of the House of which he or she is a member has so requested.

The order of release shall be effective as from the date of such order until the last day of the session.

This unofficial translation has been provided by IFES Thailand and the Political Section and Public Diplomacy Office of the US Embassy-Bangkok.

Section 132. During the expiration of the term or the dissolution of the House of Representatives, the Senate shall not hold its sitting except in the following cases:

- (1) a sitting at which the Senate shall act as the National Assembly under section 19, section 21, section 22, section 23, and section 189, and the votes taken shall be based on the number of senators;
- (2) a sitting at which the Senator shall consider having a person hold any office under applicable provisions of this Constitution;
- (3) a sitting at which the Senate shall consider and pass a resolution removing a person from office.

Section 133. A sitting of the House of Representatives and of the Senate and a joint sitting of the National Assembly are public under the conditions stipulated in the rules of procedure of each House. A sitting in camera shall be held at the request of the Council of Ministers or members of not less than one-fourth of the total number of the existing members of each House or of both Houses, as the case may be.

Section 134. The House of Representatives and the Senate have the power to make the rules of procedure governing the election and performance of duties of the President, Vice-Presidents, matters or activities which are within the powers and duties of each standing committee, performance and quorum of committees, sittings, submission and consideration of organic law bills and bills, submission of motions, consultation, debate, passing of a resolution, recording and disclosure of the passing of a resolution, interpellation, general debate, observation of the rules and orders, and other related matters. The House of Representatives and the Senate also have the power to make the rules of procedure governing codes of ethics of members and committee members, and other matters for the execution of this Constitution.

Section 135. The House of Representatives and the Senate have the power to select and appoint members of each house to constitute a standing committee and have the power to select and appoint persons, being or not being its members, to constitute an ad hoc committee in order to perform any act, inquire into or study any matter within the powers and duties of the House and report its findings to the House. The resolution appointing such ad hoc committee must specify the activity or the matter concerned clearly and without repetition or duplication.

The committees under paragraph one have the power to demand documents from any person or summon any person to give statements of fact or opinions on the act or the matter under its inquiry or study. Such power shall be enforceable by law, but shall not be applicable to magistrates or judges who perform their duties concerning the trial and adjudication of legal proceedings or the personnel administration of each Court, nor to the Ombudsmen and members of independent organizations under this Constitution, who perform their duties as provided by this Constitution or by organic Acts, as the case may be.

In the case where the person under paragraph two is a Government official, official or employee of State agency, State enterprise or local government organization, the Chairman of the committee shall notify the Minister who supervises and controls the agency to which such person is attached in order to instruct him or her to act as prescribed in paragraph two, except that, in the case of the safety or benefit of importance to the State, it shall be deemed as a ground of an exemption to the compliance with paragraph two.

The privileges provided in section 130 shall also extend to the persons performing their duties under this section.

The number of members of a standing committee appointed solely from members of the House of Representatives shall be in proportion to or in close proportion to the number of members of the House of Representatives of each political party or group of political parties in the House of Representatives.

In the absence of the rules of procedure of the House of Representatives under section 134, the President of the House of Representatives shall determine the proportion under paragraph five.

Part 5

Joint Meetings Of the National Assembly

Section 136. A joint sitting of the National Assembly shall take place for the following purposes:

- (1) Approval of the appointment of Regent under Section 19;
- (2) Declaration of the Regent under Section 21;
- (3) Acknowledgement of amendments in the Palace Law regarding succession to the throne, B.E. 2497 under Section 22;
- (4) Acknowledgement or approval of the succession to the throne under Section 23;
- (5) Resolution to allow the National Assembly to discuss other matters during an ordinary legislative session under Section 127;
- (6) Approval of prorogation of the session under Section 127;
- (7) Opening of a session under Section 128;
- (8) Enactment of regulations on the sitting of the National Assembly under Section 137;
- (9) Approval to consider organic Bills or Bills under Section 145;
- (10) Advising on Bills or organic Bills under Section 151;
- (11) Approval to consider amendment to the Constitution, Bills, and organic Bills under Section 153 paragraph two;
- (12) Announcement of policy under Section 176;
- (13) Opening of a general debate under Section 179;
- (14) Approving declaration of war under Section 189;

(15) Listening to clarification and approving a treaty under Section 190;

(16) Amending the Constitution under Section 291.

Section 137. In a joint sitting of the National Assembly, the rules of procedure of the National Assembly shall apply. In the absence of such rules, the rules of procedure of the House of Representatives shall apply mutatis mutandis.

In a joint sitting of the National Assembly, the provisions for both Houses shall apply mutatis mutandis, except in forming committees. The committee members from each House shall be closely proportional to the respective total number of the existing members of both Houses.

Part 6

Legislating Organic Bills

Section 138. Enactment of Organic Bills requires the recommendation and approval of the National Assembly as follows:

- (1) Organic Act on election of members of the House of Representatives and selection of the Senate;
- (2) Organic Act on the Election Commission;
- (3) Organic Act on political parties;
- (4) Organic Act on referendum;
- (5) Organic Act on the Constitutional Court's procedure;
- (6) Organic Act on the Ombudsman;
- (7) Organic Act on the criminal procedure for holders of political positions;
- (8) Organic Act on counter corruption;
- (9) Organic Act on State audit.

Section 139. Organic Bills can only be proposed by:

- (1) The Council of Ministers
- (2) Members of the House of Representatives numbering not less than one fifth of the existing members in the House, or the combination of the House of Representatives and the Senate with members numbering not less than one fifth of the existing members of the two Houses combined; or
- (3) The Constitutional Court, the Supreme Court, or statutory bodies, who are care-taker government under the relevant organic Act.

Section 140. Consideration of the organic Bill on the House of Representatives and the Senate shall be conducted in three stages or readings as follows:

- (1) In Stage 1, the vote concerns acceptance of the proposed Bill in principle. In Stage 2, the order of Sections is considered and the passage is based on a simple majority in each House.
- (2) In Stage 3, the proposed Bill must receive votes exceeding one half of the existing members of each House for it to become an Act.

The provisions in Part 6 of Chapter 7 on enactment of organic Bills shall apply mutatis mutandis.

Section 141. When the National Assembly has approved an organic Bill, before presenting it to the King for signature, a copy shall be sent to the Constitutional Court to ascertain whether it is consistent with the Constitution, which has to be completed within 30 days from the date the document is received.

If the Constitutional Court rules that the organic Bill contains a point or points in conflict with the Constitution, the said point(s) shall be dropped. If the decision says the important substances of the organic Bill contravene the provisions in the Constitution, then the entire Bill shall be rejected.

In cases of rejected Bill by the Constitutional Court that made the organic Bill dropped under paragraph 2, this organic Bill shall be sent back to the House of Representative and the Senate for adjustment, so that Bill shall not contravene the provision in the Constitution. The proposed Bill must receive votes exceeding one half of the existing members of each House for it to become an Act; and the Prime Minister shall proceed in accordance with Section 90, section 150 or Section 151 as the case may be.

Part 7

Legislative Process

Section 142. By virtue of Section 139, a Bill may be proposed only by:

- (1) Council of Ministers,
- (2) Members of the House of Representatives of no fewer than 20,
- (3) Courts or statutory agencies, only for laws connected with establishment of agencies and laws under the care of these agencies, or
- (4) Eligible voters of no fewer than 10,000 who sign a petition to propose legislation under Section 163.

If the Bill proposed by persons under (2), (3), and (4) is connected with money, it has to be endorsed by the Prime Minister.

If the propose by eligible voters under (4), and other person under (1), (2) provide the same Bill, the Bill under section 163 paragraph 4 has to be presented too.

A Bill has to propose first to the House of Representatives.

In proposing a Bill under paragraph one, it is necessary to attach to the proposed Bill, records of analysis and summary of the key points.

The Bill presented to the National Assembly must be disclosed to the public and the people must be able to have ready access to its detailed contents.

Section 143. A money Bill means the Bill concerns any one of the matters listed below:

- (1) Imposition, abolition, reduction, alteration, relief or regulations about taxes or duties;
- (2) Appropriations, receipts, maintenance, spending of State moneys, or transfer of State budgets;
- (3) Borrowing, guaranteeing, uses of loans, or commitment of State assets; and
- (4) Currency.

If in doubt whether the proposed Bill concerns money, which, if it does, shall require Prime Minister's endorsement, the decision shall be left to the power of a joint sitting between the President of the House of Representatives and the Chairs of all the Parliamentary Standing Committees.

The President of the House of Representatives shall arrange a joint sitting under paragraph two within 15 days from the day the issue arises.

The resolution of the joint sitting under paragraph two shall be based on a simple majority. If the votes for and against are equal, the President of the House of Representatives shall have the casting vote.

Section 144. For any Bill or organic Bill introduced by members of the House of Representatives which, at the stage of adopting its principle, was not a money Bill, but after amendment by the House, the President of the House decides it has the characteristics of a money Bill, the President of the House shall temporarily suspend the consideration of the Bill. Within fifteen days of the suspension, he or she shall refer it to a joint sitting of the President of the House and Chairs of all the Standing Committees to make a decision thereon.

If the joint sitting confirms under paragraph one that the amendment has made the Bill bear the characteristics of a money Bill, the President of the House of Representatives shall send the said Bill to the Prime Minister for endorsement. If the Prime Minister refuses to endorse, then the House of Representatives shall make further amendment so that the Bill is not a money Bill.

Section 145. If a Bill or organic Bill, which the Council of Ministers in its policy statement to the National Assembly under Section 176 said was necessary for the administration of State affairs, is not passed by the House of Representatives, and if the votes against it is less than one-half of the existing members of the House, the Council of Ministers may request the National Assembly to hold a joint sitting to review the resolution. If the joint sitting agrees, the National Assembly shall appoint persons, members or non-members, in equal numbers between the two Houses as specified by the House of Representatives, to form a joint committee of the National Assembly for considering the Bill in question. The joint committee shall then prepare a report and submit the Bill which it has considered to the National Assembly for approval. If it is approved, the Bill shall move forward under Section 146. Otherwise, it shall lapse.

Section 146. Under Section 168, when the House of Representatives has considered a Bill introduced under Section 142 and voted in favors, the House of Representatives shall submit the Bill in question to the Senate for consideration. The Senate must finish its deliberation within 60 days or within 30 days if it is a money Bill. As a special case, the Senate may however extend the time limit by another 30 days maximum. All the dates must be set with regard to the session time remaining from the day the Bill reaches the Senate.

The said period in paragraph one shall not include the time the Constitutional Court takes to consider the Bill under Section 149.

If the Senate cannot finish consideration of the Bill within the time mentioned in paragraph one, it shall be deemed as if it has approved the Bill.

If the House of Representatives submit a money Bill to the Senate, the President of the House must indicate so. The President of the House of Representatives does say that it is a money Bill. The notification of the President of the House of Representatives shall be considered final.

If the President of the House of Representatives does not say that it is a money Bill, then the Bill shall be regarded as a non-money Bill.

Section 147. By virtue of Section 168, when the Senate has finished consideration of a Bill:

- (1) If the Senate agrees with the House of Representatives, the Senate shall proceed under Section 150;
- (2) If the Senate does not agree with the House of Representatives, the Senate shall suspend the Bill and return it to the House of Representatives;
- (3) If the Bill is amended, the Senate shall send the amended Bill to the House of Representatives. If the House of Representatives agrees with the amendment, the House of Representatives shall proceed under Section 150. In all other cases, each House shall appoint members and non-members of the respective Houses in equal numbers as specified by the House of Representatives to form a joint committee for considering the Bill. The joint committee shall jointly prepare a report and submit the Bill which it has considered to both Houses. If both Houses approve, the Bill shall move forward in accordance with Section 150. If either of the Houses disapproves, the Bill shall be suspended for the time being.

The joint committee may ask for documents from someone or summon him or her to give facts or opinion on the consideration of the Bill. The privilege provided in Section 1304 shall protect whoever acts under this Section as well.

The sitting of the joint committee must have the presence of half the number of committee members to have a quorum. Section 137 shall apply mutatis mutandis.

If the Senate does not return the Bill to the House within the stipulated time under Section 146, it shall be considered as if the Senate approves and the Bill shall move forward under Section 150.

Section 148. A Bill suspended under Section 147 may be reconsidered only after a lapse of 180 days from the date the Senate sent it back to the House of Representatives, if suspended under Section 147 (2), or from the date of rejection by one or the other House if suspended under Section 147 (3). In such cases, if the House of Representatives reaffirms in a motion to keep the original Bill or the one the joint committee has adopted with votes of more than half the number of the existing members of the House of Representatives, then the Bill shall be considered approved and shall proceed according to Section 150.

If the suspended Bill is about money, the House of Representatives may reconsider it afresh immediately. In such cases, if the House of Representatives stand firm on the original Bill or the one the joint committee has adopted with a vote of more than half the number of the existing members of the House of Representatives, then the Bill shall be considered approved and shall proceed in accordance with Section 150.

Section 149. During the period of suspension under Section 147, the Council of Ministers or members of the House of Representatives shall not introduce Bills of the same or similar principle.

If the House of Representatives or the Senate think the new Bill introduced or submitted for their consideration has the same or similar principle to the suspended Bill, the President of the House of Representatives or the President of the Senate shall submit it to the Constitutional Court for review. If the Constitutional Court concurs, then the Bill shall be considered to have lapsed.

Section 150. After the Bill is approved by the House of Representatives and within 20 days from the day it was received from the National Assembly, the Prime Minister shall submit it to the King for His signature. And immediately following its announcement in the Government Gazette, the Bill shall be in force as law.

Section 151. If the King refuses His assent to a bill and either returns it to the National Assembly or does not return it within ninety days, the National Assembly must re-deliberate such bill. If the National Assembly resolves to reaffirm the bill with the votes of not less than two-thirds of the total number of the existing members of both Houses, the Prime Minister shall present such bill to the King for signature once again. If the King does not sign and return the bill within thirty days, the Prime Minister shall cause the bill to be promulgated as an Act in the Government Gazette as if the King had signed it.

Section 152. In considering a bill the substance of which is decided by the President of the House of Representatives to be concerned with children, youth, women, older persons, the disabled or handicapped, if the House of Representatives does not consider it by its full committee, the House of Representatives shall appoint an ad hoc committee consisting of representatives, from private organizations concerned with the respective types of persons, of not less than one-third of the total number of members of the committee, and with a close proportion of male and female members.

Section 153. In the case where the term of the House of Representatives expires or the House of Representatives is dissolved, the draft Constitution Amendment or all bills to which the King has refused His assent or which have not been returned by the King within ninety days, shall lapse.

In the case where the term of the House of Representatives expires or where the House of Representatives is dissolved, the National Assembly, the House of Representatives or the Senate, as the case may be, may, after a general election of members of the House of Representatives, continue the consideration of the draft Constitution Amendment or the bill which has not yet been approved by the National Assembly if the Council of Ministers which is newly appointed after the general election so requests within sixty days as from the first sitting day of the National Assembly after the general election and the National Assembly approves it. If the Council of Ministers does not so request within such period of time, such draft Constitution Amendment or bill shall lapse.

The further consideration of the draft Constitution Amendment or the bill under paragraph two shall be in accordance with the rules of procedure of the House of Representatives, the Senate or the National Assembly, as the case may be.

Part 8

Control Of Enactment Contravening the Constitution

Section 154. Before the Prime Minister submits a Bill passed by the National Assembly to the King for His signature under Section 150 or before re-submitting a Bill that the National Assembly has reaffirmed under Section 151, the following shall be done:

(1) If members of the House of Representatives, of the Senate, or the two Houses combined numbering not less than one-tenth of the existing members of the two Houses combined find anything contradicting the Constitution in the Bill, or if its passage is procedurally unconstitutional, they shall express their opinion to the President of the House of Representatives, the President of the Senate, or the President of the National Assembly as the case may be, and cause him or her to submit that opinion to the Constitutional Court for consideration and notify the Prime Minister without delay.

(2) If the Prime Minister thinks the said Bill contains something that is in conflict with this Constitution or is procedurally unconstitutional, he shall submit such opinion to the Constitutional Court for consideration and notify the President of the House of Representatives and the President of the Senate without delay.

Pending the decision of the Constitutional Court, the Prime Minister shall suspend the process of announcement in the Government Gazette.

If the Constitutional Court rules that the Bill does contain something in conflict with this Constitution or is procedurally unconstitutional, particularly if the said text is substantively important, the Bill shall be considered to have lapsed.

If the Constitutional Court rules that the Bill contains a passage or passages that contradict this Constitution but do not come into the frame of paragraph 3, the said passage(s) shall be dropped and the Prime Minister shall proceed in accordance with Section 150 or Section 151 as the case may be.

Section 155. The provisions in Section 154 shall apply mutatis mutandis to Bills on the rules of procedure of the House of Representatives, of the Senate, and of the National Assembly, which have been approved by the House of Representatives, the Senate, or the National Assembly as the case may be, but have not been announced in the Government Gazette.

Part 9

Control Of the Administration Of State Affairs

Section 156. Every member of the House of Representatives and of the Senate has the right to question a Minister or Ministers about work under their responsibility. However, the Minister or Ministers have the right not to answer if the Council of Ministers decides it is not yet time to disclose on ground that the matter concerns national security or interests.

Section 157. In administering the State affairs, an important problem, which affects national or public interest and attracts public attention, may arise and become a matter of urgency. [In the circumstances], a member of the House of Representatives may notify the President of the House in writing before the sitting of the day begins that he or she wishes to question the Prime Minister or Minister concerned with the issue without having to specify the question but asking the President of the House to enter the said item in the agenda of the day.

Interpellation or ministerial questioning may take place once a week, allowing a member of the House of Representatives to orally ask no more than three questions in accordance with the rules of procedure of the House of Representatives.

Section 158. Members of the House of Representatives of no less than one-fifth of the existing members of the House shall have the right to call for a general debate of no-confidence in the Prime Minister. The said motion must propose a suitable replacement, with qualifications specified in Section 171 paragraph two. After the motion is lodged, it is not permitted to dissolve the House unless the motion is withdrawn or the motion is not carried under paragraph three.

A motion for a general debate under paragraph one shall not be permitted without first submitting a petition under Section 271, specifically if it concerns the conduct of the Prime Minister who has become “unusually rich” through apparent misfeasance or for deliberate defiance of the provisions of the Constitution or law. When the petition is submitted under Section 271, the proceedings shall move forward without having to wait for the results of the action under Section 272.

When the general debate has ended without passing the motion of no-confidence, such a resolution shall not be on the same day the general debate ends. For the motion of no-confidence to be carried, it must have votes exceeding half the number of the existing members of the House.

Where the votes is less than half the number of the existing members of the House of the House of Representatives, those proposing the motion shall have no right to call another debate of no-confidence the rest of the session.

Where the votes exceed one-half of the existing members of the House, the President shall submit the proposed name under paragraph one to the King for His appointment. He or she shall not apply Section 172.

Section 159. Members of the House of Representatives of not less than one-sixth of the total number of the existing members of the House of Representatives have the right to submit a motion for a general debate for the purpose of passing a vote of no-confidence in an individual Minister. The provisions of section 158, paragraph two, paragraph three and paragraph four shall apply mutatis mutandis.

The Minister who has vacated his office but is still holding another ministerial position after the members of the House of Representatives submits the motion under paragraph one shall still be subject to the debate for the purpose of passing a vote of no-confidence under paragraph one.

The provision of paragraph two shall apply mutatis mutandis to the Minister who has vacated his office for less than a period of ninety days when the members of the House of Representatives submit the motion under paragraph one, and who is still holding another ministerial position.

Section 160. In the case where the number of members of the House of Representatives are not members of political parties to which ministers belong is insufficient to submit a motion for the purpose of passing a vote of no-confidence under section 158 or section 159, members of the House of Representatives of more than half of the total number of the existing members shall have the right to submit a motion for the purpose of passing a vote of no-confidence on the prime minister or an individual minister under section 158 or section 159 after the Council of Ministers has been in office for more than two years.

Section 161. Senators of not less than one-thirds of the total number of the existing members of the Senate have the right to submit a motion for a general debate in the Senate for the purpose of requesting the Council of Ministers to give statements of fact or explain important problems in connection with the administration of the State affairs without a resolution to be passed.

The motion for the general debate under this section may be submitted only once in each session.

Section 162. In a sitting of the House of Representatives or the Senate during which an interpellation is raised concerning the carrying out of duties by ministers or in the case of a general debate of no-confidence in the prime minister or individual ministers is held, the prime minister or minister subject to the no-confidence debate shall have the duty to attend such sitting to answer such an interpellation in person, except if they are unavoidably prevented from attending such a sitting, for which they must notify the President of the House of Representatives and the president of the Senate in advance or on the day of such sitting.

Members of the House of Representatives shall be free from resolutions adopted by political parties in raising an interpellation, engaging in a debate, and voting in a no-confidence debate.

CHAPTER VII CITIZEN PARTICIPATION

People's Direct Political Participation

Section 163. Eligible voters of no fewer than 10,000 shall have the right to sign a petition to the President of the Senate to cause the National Assembly to consider legislation under the provisions in Chapter 3 and Chapter 5 of this Constitution.

The petition must be accompanied by the Bill being proposed.

The rules and procedure for petition and scrutiny shall be in accordance with the provisions of the law.

At the stage of adopting the petition under paragraph 1 the House of Representatives and the Senate shall permit the Eligible voters to elucidate each petition. The extraordinary committee members shall be composed not less than one-third of the Eligible voters of the extraordinary committee.

Section 164. Eligible voters of no fewer than 20,000 can sign a petition to the President of the Senate under Section 274 to have a person removed from office under Section 270.

The petition under paragraph one must clearly state one by one the wrong-doings of the holder of office in question allegedly committed.

The rules and procedure and conditions for petition under paragraph one must be in accordance with the organic Act on counter corruption.

Section 165. An eligible voter has the right to vote in a referendum.

A referendum must be conducted under the following circumstances:

(1) Where the Council of Ministers is of the opinion that certain action may affect the interests of the nation or people, the Prime Minister with the consent of the Council of Ministers may seek advice of the President of the House or of the Senate before announcing the referendum in the Government Gazette.

(2) Where there is a law requiring a referendum:

The referendum under (1) or (2) can be either conclusive with a majority vote on the issue involved, or consultative to advise the Council of Ministers unless the law stipulates otherwise.

The vote in a referendum shall be for or against in the matter for which it is intended. It must not contradict the Constitution, nor be about an individual or a group of individuals.

Before a referendum, the State must provide adequate information, giving both those for and those against an equal opportunity to express their views.

The rules and procedure of a referendum shall be in accordance with the organic Act on referendum; that must at least be informed about the procedure, time, and the number of votes required to be decisive.

Chapter VIII

Money, Finance and Budget

Section 166. The expenditure estimates of the State shall be made in the form of an Act. If the Annual Appropriations Act for the following fiscal year is not enacted in time, the law on annual appropriations for the preceding fiscal year shall apply for the time being.

Section 167. The presentation of the Annual Appropriations Bill must be accompanied by relating documents clearly showing revenue estimates and objectives, activities, work program and projects of each item of the expenditure of estimates. It must also show the financial status of the State with aggregate profiles of expenditures and revenues, benefits and the loss of revenue from tax exemptions, necessity to set a budget to fund past commitments, debt accumulation of the State as well as the financial positions of State enterprises in the fiscal year that appropriations are requested and in the previous fiscal year for additional consideration.

Any expenditure that cannot be directly allocated to government agencies, State enterprises or any other State agencies, it shall be allocated to the Central Fund, with reasons indicated.

There shall be legislation on State finance to determine the budgetary discipline, including rules on medium-range financial plan, rules on revenue provision, guidelines for preparing State expenditure estimates, management of money and assets, accounting, public funding, debt accumulation or commitment of State assets; and rules to determine the amount of reserve for emergencies and the likes, which will provide a framework for revenue provision, expenditure based on economic stability concept, sustainable economy development, and social justice.

Section 168. The House of Representatives must finish the consideration and analysis of the annual appropriations bill, a supplementary appropriations bill and a transfer of appropriations bill within one hundred and five days as from the date the bill is introduced to the House of Representatives.

If the House of Representatives has not finished the consideration of the bill within the period referred to in paragraph one, such bill shall be deemed to have been approved by the House of Representatives and shall be submitted to the Senate.

In the consideration by the Senate, the Senate must approve or disapprove it without any amendment within twenty days as from the date the bill is introduced to the Senate. Upon the lapse of such period, such bill shall be deemed to have been approved; in such case and in the case where the Senate approves it, further proceedings under section 150 shall be taken.

If the Senate disapproves the bill, the provisions of section 148, paragraph two shall apply mutatis mutandis.

In the consideration of the annual appropriations bill, the supplementary appropriations bill and the transfer of appropriations bill, a member of the House of Representatives shall not submit a motion adding any item or amount to the bill, but may submit a motion reducing or abridging the expenditures which are not expenditures according to any of the following obligations:

- (1) Money for payment of the principal of a loan;

This unofficial translation has been provided by IFES Thailand and the Political Section and Public Diplomacy Office of the US Embassy-Bangkok.

(2) Interest on a loan;

(3) Money payable in accordance with the law.

In the consideration by the House of Representatives, the Senate, or a committee, any proposal, submission of a motion or commission of an act, which results in direct or indirect involvement by members of the House of Representatives, senators or members of a committee in the use of the appropriations, shall not be permitted.

In the case where members of the House of Representatives or senators of not less than one-tenth of the total number of the existing members of each House are of the opinion that the violation of the provisions of paragraph six has occurred, they shall refer it to the Constitutional Court for decision and the Constitutional Court shall decide it within seven days as from the date of its receipt. In the case where the Constitutional Court decides that the violation of the provisions of paragraph six has occurred, such proposal, submission of the motion, or commission of the act shall be ineffective.

The State shall allocate adequate budgets for the independent administration of the National Assembly, the Constitutional Court, the Courts of Justice, the Administrative Courts and independent organizations under this Constitution.

The National Assembly, courts, and agencies under paragraph eight may submit a motion directly to the commission if in their opinion their budgets are insufficient.

Section 169. The payment of State funds shall be made only when it has been authorized by the law on appropriations, the law on budgetary procedure, the law on transfer of appropriations or the law on treasury balance, except that it may be prepaid in the case of urgent necessity under the rules and procedure provided by the law. In such case, the expenditure estimates for reimbursement must be set aside in the Transfer of Appropriations Act, the Supplementary Appropriations Act, or the Annual Appropriations Act for the following fiscal year. The sources of revenues for use in the reimbursement for the prepaid expenditure shall be specified.

In the event of the country bring in a state of war or battle, the Council of Ministers has the power to transfer or use the budgets allocated for State agencies or State enterprises to finance activities not stipulated in the annual appropriations act and shall report its action to the National Assembly without delay.

In the case where budgets for one finance activity of State agencies or State enterprises has been transferred or used for another finance activity, the Government shall report it to the National Assembly for every period of six months.

Section 170. A State agency, whose revenue is not required to be sent to the State coffers, shall prepare its own balance sheet of income and expenditure and submit it to the Council of Ministers at the end of every fiscal year for further reporting to the House of Representatives and the Senate.

The expenditure under paragraph one shall fall within the budgetary discipline under this Chapter.

Chapter IX

The Council of Ministers

Section 171. The King appoints the Prime Minister and not more than thirty-five other Ministers to constitute the Council of Ministers having the duties to carry out the administration of the State affairs on the principle of collective responsibility.

The Prime Minister shall be a member of the House of Representatives, being elected under the provisions of section 172.

The President of the House of Representatives shall countersign the Royal Command appointing the Prime Minister.

The Prime Minister shall not serve in office more than eight years.

Section 172. The House of Representatives shall complete its consideration and approval of the person suitable to be appointed as Prime Minister within thirty days as from the day the National Assembly is convoked for the first sitting under section 127.

The nomination of a person who is suitable to be appointed as Prime Minister under paragraph one shall be endorsed by members of the House of Representatives of not less than one-fifth of the total number of the existing members of the House.

The resolution of the House of Representatives approving the appointment of a person as Prime Minister shall be passed by the votes of more than one-half of the total number of the existing members of the House of Representatives. The passing of the resolution in such case shall be by open votes.

Section 173. In the case where the period of thirty days as from the date the National Assembly is convoked for the first sitting of members of the House of Representatives has elapsed and no one has been approved for appointment as Prime Minister under section 172 paragraph three, the President of the House of Representatives shall, within fifteen days as from the lapse of such period, present to the King for the issuance of a Royal Command appointing the person who has received the highest votes as Prime Minister.

Section 174. A Minister must possess the qualifications and must not be under any of the prohibitions as follows:

- (1) being of Thai nationality by birth;
- (2) being not less than thirty five years of age;
- (3) having graduated with not lower than a Bachelor's degree or its equivalent;
- (4) not being under any of the prohibitions under section 102 (1), (2), (3), (4), (6), (7), (8), (9), (11), (12), (13) or (14);

- (5) having been discharged for a period of less than five years before the appointment after being sentenced by a judgment to imprisonment, except for an offense committed through negligence or a petty offense;
- (6) not being a senator or having been a senator whose membership has terminated for not more than one year up to the date of the appointment as Minister.

Section 175. Before taking office, a Minister must make a solemn declaration before the King in the following words:

"I, (name of the declarer), do solemnly declare that I will be loyal to the King and will faithfully perform my duties in the interests of the country and of the people. I will also uphold and observe the Constitution of the Kingdom of Thailand in every respect."

Section 176. The Council of Ministers which will assume the administration of the State affairs must, within fifteen days as from the date it takes office, state its policies to the National Assembly and explain its administration by the directive principles of fundamental state policies under section 75; provided that no vote of confidence shall be passed. After its statement of policies to the National Assembly, the Council of Ministers shall prepare an annual plan for the administration of State affairs in accordance with the provisions of Section 76.

Before stating policies to the National Assembly under paragraph one, if there occurs a case of importance and necessary urgency which, if left delayed, will affect material benefits of the State, the Council of Ministers which has taken office may, for the time being, carry out such acts in so far as it is necessary.

Section 177. A minister has the right to attend and give statements of fact or opinions at a sitting of the House. In the case where the House of Representatives or the Senate has passed a resolution requiring ministers to attend a sitting for any matter, they shall attend the sitting. The provisions of Section 130 shall apply mutatis mutandis.

During the sitting of the House of Representatives, if a Minister is concurrently a member of the House, he or she is prohibited to vote in connection with his or her being in office, his or her performance of duties, or his or her being party to the loss or benefits in that matter.

Section 178. Ministers shall carry out the administration of the State affairs in accordance with the provisions of the Constitution, laws and the policies stated under section 176, and shall be responsible individually to the House of Representatives for the performance of their duties and shall also be responsible collectively to the National Assembly for the general policies of the Council of Ministers.

Section 179. In the case where there is an important problem in the administration of the State affairs in regard to which the Council of Ministers deems it advisable to take opinion of members of the House of Representatives and senators, the Prime Minister may give a notice to the President of the National Assembly requesting that a general debate be held at a joint sitting of the National Assembly. In such case, no resolution shall be passed by the National Assembly on the issue put in the debate.

Section 180. Ministers vacate office en masse upon:

- (1) the termination of ministership of the Prime Minister under section 182;
- (2) the expiration of the term or the dissolution of the House of Representatives;
- (3) the resignation of the Council of Ministers.

In the case where the ministership of the Prime Minister terminates under section 182 (1), (2), (3), (4), (5), (7), or (8), the procedure under section 172 and section 173 shall apply mutatis mutandis.

Section 181. The outgoing Council of Ministers shall remain in office for carrying out duties until the newly appointed Council of Ministers takes office but, in the case of the vacation of office under section 180 (2), the Council of Ministers and ministers shall perform duties as necessary under the following conditions:

- (1) shall not exercise its power to appoint, transfer, dismiss, or have someone else perform the duties of a government official holding a permanent position or receiving a salary, or an official of a State agency, a State enterprise, or an enterprise, of which the State is a major shareholder, except with the approval of the Election Commission.
- (2) shall not take any action requiring the spending of a reserve budget set aside for cases of emergency or necessity, except with the approval of the Election Commission.
- (3) shall not take any action approving a work or project, or binding on the next Council of Ministers.
- (4) shall not exploit the State's resources or manpower in a way that will affect the results of the next election or be in contradiction to the rules and regulations of the Election Commission.

Section 182. The ministership of an individual Minister terminates upon:

- (1) death;
- (2) resignation;
- (3) being sentenced to imprisonment even though the case has not been finalized, or in the case of the suspension of a jail term, except for such a case being an offense committed through negligence, a petty offense, or an offense of defamation;
- (4) being sentenced by a judgment to imprisonment;
- (5) the passing of a vote of no-confidence by the House of Representatives under section 158 or section 159;
- (6) the issuance of a Royal Command for the removal of a Minister from his or her office under section 183;
- (7) having done an act prohibited by section 267, section 268, or section 209;
- (8) being removed from office by a resolution of the Senate under section 274.

Aside from the causes of the termination of the individual ministership under paragraph one, the ministership of Prime Minister terminates upon the expiration of term under section 171, paragraph four

The provisions of section 91 and section 92 shall apply to the termination of the ministership under (2), (3), (5) or (7), or under paragraph two. The Election Commission shall also be empowered to submit this case to the Constitutional Court for decision.

Section 183. The King has the prerogative to remove a Minister from his or her office upon the advice of the Prime Minister.

Section 184. For the purpose of maintaining national or public safety or national economic security, or averting public calamity, the King may issue an Emergency Decree which shall have the force as an Act.

The issuance of an Emergency Decree under paragraph one shall be made only when the Council of Ministers is of the opinion that it is the case of emergency and necessary urgency which is unavoidable.

In the next succeeding sitting of the National Assembly, the Council of Ministers shall submit the Emergency Decree to the National Assembly for its consideration without delay. If it is out of session and it would be a delay to wait for the opening of an ordinary session, the Council of Ministers must proceed to convoke an extraordinary session of the National Assembly in order to consider whether to approve or disapprove the Emergency Decree without delay. If the House of Representatives disapproves it, or approves it but the Senate disapproves it and the House of Representatives reaffirms its approval by the votes of not more than one-half of the total number of the existing members of the House, the Emergency Decree shall lapse; provided that it shall not affect any act done during the enforcement of such Emergency Decree.

If the Emergency Decree under paragraph one has the effect of amending or repealing any provisions of any Act and such Emergency Decree has lapsed in accordance with paragraph three, the provisions of the Act in force before the amendment or repeal shall continue to be in force as from the day the disapproval of such Emergency Decree comes into effect.

If the House of Representatives and the Senate approve the Emergency Decree, or if the Senate disapproves it but the House of Representatives reaffirms its approval by the votes of more than one-half of the total number of the existing members of the House, such Emergency Decree shall continue to have the force as an Act.

The Prime Minister shall cause the approval or disapproval of the Emergency Decree to be published in the Government Gazette. In case of disapproval, it shall be effective as from the day following the date of its publication in the Government Gazette.

The consideration of an Emergency Decree by the Senate and the House of Representatives in case of reaffirmation of the Emergency Decree must take place at the first opportunity when such Houses hold their sittings.

Section 185. Before the House of Representatives or the Senate approves an Emergency Decree under section 184 paragraph three, members of the House of Representatives or senators of not less than one-fifth of the total number of the existing members of each House have the right to submit an opinion to the President of the House of which they are members that the Emergency Decree is not in accordance with section 184, paragraph one or two, and the President of the House who receives such opinion shall then refer it to the Constitutional Court, within thirty days as from the day such opinion is received, for decision. After the Constitutional Court has given a decision thereon, it shall notify its decision to the President of the House referring such opinion.

When the President of the House of Representatives or the President of the Senate has received the opinion from members of the House of Representatives or senators under paragraph one, the consideration of such Emergency Decree shall be deferred until the decision of the Constitutional Court under paragraph one has been notified.

In the case where the Constitutional Court decides that any Emergency Decree is not in accordance with section 184, paragraph one or two, such Emergency Decree shall not have the force of law ab initio.

The decision of the Constitutional Court that an Emergency Decree is not in accordance with section 184, paragraph one or two, must be given by votes of not less than two-thirds of the total number of members of the Constitutional Court.

Section 186. If, during a session, it is necessary to have a law on taxes, duties or currency, which, in the interests of the State, requires an urgent and confidential consideration, the King may issue an Emergency Decree which shall have the force as an Act. The Emergency Decree issued under paragraph one must be submitted to the House of Representatives within three days as from the day following the date of its publication in the Government Gazette, and the provisions of section 184 shall apply mutatis mutandis.

Section 187. The King has the prerogative to issue a Royal Decree which is not contrary to the law.

Section 188. The King has the prerogative to declare and lift the martial law in accordance with the conditions and manner under the Martial Law.

In the case where it is necessary to declare the martial law in a certain locality as a matter of urgency, the military authority may do so under the Martial Law.

Section 189. The King has the prerogative to declare war with the approval of the National Assembly.

The approval resolution of the National Assembly must be passed by votes of not less than two-thirds of the total number of the existing members of both Houses.

During the expiration of the term or the dissolution of the House of Representatives, the Senate shall perform the function of the National Assembly in giving the approval under paragraph one, and the resolution shall be passed by votes of not less than two-thirds of the total number of the existing senators.

Section 190. The King has the prerogative to conclude a peace treaty, armistice and other treaties with other countries or international organizations.

A treaty that provides for a change in the Thai territories, the extraterritorial areas in which the Kingdom has a sovereign right, or any jurisdictional area the Kingdom has acquired through treaty or through international law, or requires the enactment of an Act for its implementation, or has extensive impacts on the country's economic and social stability, or has significant bindings on trade, investment, or national budget, must be approved by the National Assembly. This approval of the National Assembly shall be made within sixty days as from the day such a treaty is received.

Prior to the conclusion of a treaty with other countries or international organizations under paragraph two, the Council of Ministers shall publicize relevant information, make arrangement for a public hearing on the matter, and provide clarification of such a treaty to the National Assembly, in which the Council of Ministers is required to propose the negotiation framework to the National Assembly for approval.

After the signing of the treaty under paragraph two, the Council of Ministers, before expressing its intent for any bindings, shall provide access to the details of the treaty to the public. In a case where the implementation of such a treaty will affect the people or the small or medium sized entrepreneurs, the Council of Ministers shall take actions to make corrections or help the affected individuals in a timely, suitable, and fair manner.

A law shall be enacted on the procedures of the conclusion of a treaty having extensive impacts on the country's economic and social stability, or having significant bindings on trade or investment, including actions to make corrections or help the individuals affected by the observance of such a treaty with consideration of fairness between those benefiting the observance of the treaty and those affected by it, and of people.

In the case where a problem occurs under paragraph two and cannot be resolved, the Constitutional Court shall have the power to make a final decision. Provisions under section 154 (1) shall be applied mutatis mutandis to the petition of the case to the Constitutional Court for decision.

Section 191. The King has the prerogative to grant a pardon.

Section 192. The King has the prerogative to remove titles and recall decorations.

Section 193. The King appoints and removes officials in the military service and civil service who hold the positions of Permanent Secretary of State, Director-General and their equivalents except in the case where they vacate office upon death.

Section 194. A Government official or an employee of the State holding a permanent position or receiving a salary and not being a political official shall not be a political official or hold other political position.

Section 195. All laws, Royal Rescripts and Royal Commands relating to the State affairs must be countersigned by a Minister unless otherwise provided in this Constitution.

All laws which have been signed or deemed to have been signed by the King shall forthwith be published in the Government Gazette.

Section 196. Emoluments and other remuneration of Privy Councilors, President and Vice-Presidents of the House of Representatives, President and Vice-Presidents of the Senate, Leader of the Opposition in the House of Representatives, members of the House of Representatives and senators shall be prescribed by the Royal Decree. Such emoluments and remuneration shall not be payable before the day they take their office.

Gratuities, pensions or other remuneration of Privy Councilors who vacate their office shall be prescribed by the Royal Decree.

CHAPTER X

THE COURTS

Part 1

General Provisions

Section 197. The trial and adjudication of cases are the powers of the Courts, which must proceed in accordance with the Constitution and the law and in the name of the King.

A judge is free and independent to adjudicate correctly, justly, and quickly in accordance with the Constitution and law.

Transfer of Judges and Justices without their consent is prohibited except for timing as provided by the law and promotion, or in the case of disciplinary action or being a criminal defendant, or prejudicial to an on-going trial, unavoidable necessity, or force majeure, as provided by law.

Judges and Justices are prohibited to hold political positions.

Section 198. All courts can only be established by Acts.

In case the Supreme Court of Justice has an order for revocation of selection or disfranchisement of any member of the Senate, membership of the said Senator shall be terminated as from the date the Supreme Court of Justice has issued the order. Selection of a new Senator to fill the vacancy shall proceed thereof.

Any objection and consideration by the Election Commission shall proceed in accordance with the Organic Act on Election of Members of the House of Representatives and the Taking of Office of Senators.

Section 241. During the period in which a Royal Decree calling for an election of members of the House of Representatives or Senate, a notification for the selection of Senators or a referendum is effective, no election commissioner shall be arrested, detained, or summoned by a warrant for an investigation except in the case where the permission of the Election Commission is obtained or where the arrest is made in flagrante delicto.

In the case where an election commissioner has been arrested in flagrante delicto, or where an election commissioner is arrested or detained in other cases, it shall be forthwith reported to the chairperson of the Election Commission, and the chairperson may order the release of the person so arrested.

2. Ombudsmen

Section 242. The ombudsmen shall not be more than three in number and shall be appointed by the King with the advice of the Senate from persons recognized and respected by the public, with knowledge and experience in the administration of State affairs, enterprises, or activities of common interest for the public and with apparent integrity.

Appointed ombudsmen shall hold a meeting to elect among from themselves a president and shall disclose the result of the election to the president of the Senate.

The president of the Senate shall countersign the Royal Command appointing the ombudsmen.

The qualifications, prohibitions, selection, and election regarding the ombudsmen shall be in accordance with the organic law on ombudsmen.

The ombudsmen shall hold office for a term of six years from the date of their appointment by the King and shall serve for only one term.

The Office of Ombudsman shall have autonomy in personnel management, budget and other activities as provided by law.

Section 243. The selection of the Ombudsmen shall be made in accordance with the provisions of Section 206 and Section 207 mutatis mutandis. The selective committee shall consist of seven members, namely the President of the Supreme Court of Justice, the President of Constitutional Court, the President of the Supreme Administrative Court, the President of the House of Representatives, and the Opposition Leader in the House of Representatives, a person elected at a general meeting of the Supreme Court of Justice, and a person elected at a general meeting of the Supreme Administrative Court. The Section 231 (1) para two shall apply mutatis mutandis.

Section 244. The ombudsmen have the powers and duties as follows:

(1) to consider and inquire into a complaint for fact-finding in the following cases:

(a) failure to perform in compliance with the law or performance beyond the powers and duties as provided by the law for a government official, an official, or an employee of a State agency, State enterprise, or local government organization;

(b) the performance of, or negligence in the performance of, the duties of a government official or an official or employee of a State agency, State enterprise, or local government organization, which unjustly causes injury to the complainant or the public, regardless of whether such an act is lawful or not;

(c) examination of negligence in the performance of duties or the unlawful performance of duties by organizations under the Constitution and judicial bodies;

(d) other cases as provided by the law;

(2) to take action in connection with the moral conduct of persons holding political positions and State officials in accordance with the provisions of Section 279 para three and Section 280.

(3) to prepare reports for and submit opinions and suggestions to the National Assembly. Such reports shall be published in the Government Gazette and made available to the general public.

(4) to report results of investigation and performance as well as observations to the Cabinet, House of Representatives, and Senate annually and the said reports shall be published in the Government Gazette.

Actions under (1) a (b) and (c) shall be taken by the ombudsmen after having received complaints from injured persons. The ombudsmen may decide to launch an investigation into any matter that is deemed to be detrimental to the general public or the public interest.

Section 245. The ombudsmen may refer matters to the Constitutional Court or the Administrative Courts for a decision in accordance with the procedure of the Constitutional Court without delay in cases where:

(1) questions over the constitutionality of the provisions of any law have arisen; in such cases the ombudsmen shall request without delay the Constitutional Court's judgment in accordance with the procedures of the Constitutional Court.

(2) questions over the constitutionality or legitimacy of regulations or orders or actions taken by persons under Section 244 (1) (a) have arisen; in such cases, the ombudsmen shall request without delay the Administrative Courts' judgment in accordance with the procedures of the Administrative Courts.

3. National Counter Corruption Commission

Section 246: The National Counter Corruption Commission consists of the president and eight qualified members appointed by the King with the advice of the Senate.

Members of the National Counter Corruption Commission shall be persons of apparent integrity, with qualifications and free of the prohibitions under section 205, having been, in the past, a minister, an election commissioner, an ombudsman, a member of the National Human Rights Commission, a member of the National Counter Corruption Commission, a member of the State Audit Commission, or having served, in the past, in a position not lower than that of a deputy director general or civilian officer at level 9, or a professor, representative of a private organization or a practicing lawyer of a lawyers association for a period of not less than 30 years with confirmation of his or her years of service from such an organization or association.

The selection and nomination of members of the National Counter Corruption Commission shall be made in accordance with the provisions of Section 204 paragraph three and paragraph four, Section 206 and Section 207 mutatis and mutandis. The selection committee consists of 5 members, namely the President of the Supreme Court of Justice, the President of Constitutional Court, the President of the Supreme Administrative, the President of the House of Representatives and the Opposition leader in the House of Representatives.

The president of the Senate shall countersign the Royal Command appointing the president and members of the National Counter Corruption Commission.

The provincial counter corruption commission shall be formed with qualifications, selection process, and roles and responsibilities of members of the commission in accordance with the Organic Law on the National Counter Corruption Commission.

Section 247. Members of the National Counter Corruption Commission shall hold office for a term of nine years as from the date of their appointment by the King and shall serve for only one term.

Members of the National Counter Corruption Commission who vacate office at the expiration of their term shall remain in office and continue to perform their duties until the newly appointed members take office.

Section 209 and Section 210 shall apply to the vacation, selection, and election of members of the National Counter Corruption Commission mutatis mutandis.

Section 248. Members of the House of Representatives numbering not less than one-fourth of the total number of existing members of the House have a right to lodge with the president of the Senate a complaint that any member of the National Counter Corruption Commission has acted unjustly, intentionally violated the Constitution or laws, or has been involved in anything that is seriously detrimental to the dignity of holding the office, in order to request the Senate to pass a resolution removing him from office.

A resolution of the Senate removing a member of the National Counter Corruption Commission from office under paragraph one shall be passed by votes numbering not less than three-fourths of the total number of existing members of the Senate.

Section 249. Members of the House of Representatives, senators, or members of both Houses numbering not less than one-fifth of the total number of existing members of both Houses have a right to lodge with the Supreme Court of Justice's Criminal Division for Persons Holding Political Positions an allegation that any member of the National Counter Corruption Commission has become unusually wealthy or has committed an offence involving corruption or malfeasance while in office.

The request under paragraph one shall clearly itemize the circumstance in which such a person has allegedly committed the act under paragraph one and shall be submitted to the president of the Senate. When the president of the Senate has received the said request, the president shall refer it to the Supreme Court of Justice's Criminal Division for Persons Holding Political Positions for trial and adjudication.

The alleged member of the National Counter Corruption Commission shall not perform his duties until the Supreme Court of Justice's Criminal Division for Persons Holding Political Positions has dismissed the said request.

In case the accused member of the National Counter Corruption Commission shall not perform his or her duties according to paragraph three and the remaining number of National Counter Corruption Commission is less than half the total number of the National Counter Corruption Commission, the President of the Supreme Court of Justice and the President of the Supreme Administrative Court shall jointly appoint a person who shall meet the qualifications and shall not be under the same prohibitions as the accused member to temporarily act as a replacement member of the National Counter Corruption Commission. The interim member shall perform the duty until the replaced member may resume his or her duty or until the Supreme Court of Justice Criminal Division for Persons Holding Political Positions shall hand down a verdict that the accused member has committed wrongful act.

Section 250. The National Counter Corruption Commission shall have the following powers and duties:

- (1) to inquire into the facts, summarize the case, and prepare a verdict to be submitted to the Senate according to Section 272 and Section 279 para three;

- (2) to inquire into the facts, summarize the case, and prepare a verdict to be submitted to the Supreme Court of Justice's Criminal Division for Persons Holding Political Positions in accordance with Section 275;
- (3) to investigate and decide whether a state official who holds an executive post or a Government official who holds a position from the Director level upwards or the equivalent has become unusually wealthy or has committed an offence of corruption, malfeasance in office or malfeasance in judicial office, including any state official or Government official at lower level who has colluded with the said state official or Government official to commit a wrongful offence or other offences that the National Counter Corruption Commission deems appropriate to investigate and decide the case in accordance with the Organic Act pertaining to the National Counter Corruption Commission.
- (4) to inspect the accuracy, actual existence, as well as change of assets and liabilities of persons holding positions under Section 259 and Section 264 as stated in the account and supporting documents submitted;
- (5) to supervise and observe the ethics of persons holding political positions;
- (6) to submit an inspection report and a report on the performance of duties together with remarks to the Council of Ministers, the House of Representatives, and the Senate annually and to publish that report in the Government Gazette and disseminate it to the public; and
- (7) to carry out other actions as provided by the law.

Section 213 shall apply to the performance of duties of the National Counter Corruption Commission mutatis mutandis.

The President and members of the National Counter Corruption Commission are the judicial officials by law.

Section 251. The National Counter Corruption Commission shall have an independent secretariat, with the secretary-general of the National Counter Corruption Commission as the superior directly responsible to the president of the National Counter Corruption Commission.

The appointment of the secretary-general of the National Counter Corruption Commission shall be approved by the National Counter Corruption Commission and the Senate.

The Office of the National Counter Corruption Commission shall have autonomy in its personnel administration, budget, and other activities as provided by the law.

4. State Audit Commission

Section 252. The State audit shall be carried out by the State Audit Commission and the Auditor-General, who is independent and impartial.

The State Audit Commission consists of the chairperson and six other members appointed by the King from persons with expertise and experience in state auditing, accounting, internal auditing, finance, and other fields.

The selection of members of the State Audit Commission shall be made in accordance with the provisions of Section 204 paragraph three and paragraph four, Section 206 and section 207 mutatis and mutandis. The composition of the Selection Committee shall be made in accordance with the provisions of Section 243.

The President of the Senate shall countersign the Royal Command appointing the Chairperson and the members of the State Audit Commission and the Auditor-general.

Members of the State Audit Commission shall hold office for a term of six years from the date of their appointment by the King and shall serve for only one term.

Qualifications, prohibitions, selection, election, and vacation of office of members of the State Audit Commission and the Auditor-General as well as powers and duties of the State Audit Commission, the Auditor-General and the Office of the State Audit Commission shall be in accordance with the organic law on state audit.

The determination of the qualifications and procedures for the election of persons to be appointed as members of the State Audit Commission and the Auditor-general shall be made in a manner that can secure persons of appropriate qualifications and integrity and that can provide for the guarantee of the independence of such persons in the performance of their duties.

Section 253. The State Audit Commission has the power and duty to set the standard of the state audit and give advice and recommendations for the correction of shortcomings in state audit undertakings; and it has the power to deliberate on cases concerning monetary, financial, and budgetary disciplines. Such judgments made by the State Audit Commission and the Office of the State Audit shall be in accordance with the organic law on the state audit.

The Auditor-General shall have the powers and duties in the state audit and is independent and impartial.

Section 254. The State Audit Commission shall have an independent secretariat, with the Auditor-General as the superior person directly responsible to the chairperson of the State Audit Commission, as provided by the organic law on the state audit.

The Office of the State Audit Commission shall have autonomy in personnel administration, budget and other activities as provided by law.

Part 2

Other Organizations Under the Constitution

1. Prosecution Organization

Section 255. Public prosecutors shall have the powers and duties as provide by this Constitution and laws pertaining to powers and duties of public prosecutors as well as other laws.

A public prosecutor has independence in considering the prosecution of cases and shall perform his or her duties impartially.

The appointment and removal of the prosecutor general requires a resolution adopted by the Public Prosecution Committee with the consent of the Senate.

The President of the Senate countersigns the Royal Decree appointing the prosecutor general.

The Prosecution Organization commands an independent administrative unit in charge of the management of manpower, budget, and other undertakings under the direct control of the prosecutor general in accordance with provisions of the law.

The public prosecutor must not be a board member of any public enterprise or other state services in the same manner unless permission is given by the Public Prosecution Commission. The public prosecutor shall not pursue any occupation or profession or other activities that may affect the performance of duty or tarnish the dignity of governmental position holding and not be a member, manager or legal advisor or any other similar post holder in any business company.

The Section 202 shall apply mutatis mutandis.

2. National Human Rights Commission

Section 256. The National Human Rights Commission consists of a president and six other members appointed by the King with the advice of the Senate from persons having apparent knowledge and experience in the protection of the rights and liberties of the people, having regard also to the participation of representatives from private organizations in the field of human rights.

The President of the Senate shall countersign the Royal Command appointing the president and the members of the National Human Rights Commission.

The qualifications, prohibitions, selection, election, removal, and determination of the remuneration regarding members of the National Human Rights Commission shall be as provided by the law.

The members of the National Human Rights Commission shall hold office for a term of six years from the date of their appointment by the King and shall serve for only one term.

The provisions of Section 2004 paragraph three, Section 206, Section 207, and Section 209 (2) shall apply mutatis and mutandis. The selection of the Selective Committee shall be made in accordance with the provisions of Section 243.

The Office of the National Human Rights Commission shall have autonomy in personnel administration, budget and other activities as provided by law.

Section 257. The National Human Rights have the powers and duties as follows:

This unofficial translation has been provided by IFES Thailand and the Political Section and Public Diplomacy Office of the US Embassy-Bangkok.

- (1) to examine and report the commission or omission of acts which violate human rights or which do not comply with obligations under international treaties to which Thailand is a party, and propose appropriate remedial measures to the person or agency committing or omitting such acts to be acted upon. In the case where it appears that no action has been taken as proposed, the commission shall report to the National Assembly for further proceeding;
- (2) to submit to the Constitutional Court any complaints received and an assessment of the provisions of the law that affect human rights and are inconsistent with the provisions of the Constitution;
- (3) to propose to the Administrative Courts any complaints received and an assessment of any regulations, orders, or other actions that affect human rights and are inconsistent with the provisions of the Constitution;
- (4) to file lawsuit with the court of justice on behalf of the injured when requested and deemed appropriate to solve problems of public human rights violation as specified by law;
- (5) to suggest policy and recommendation to revise laws, regulations to the national Assembly and the Council of Ministers to promote and protect human rights
- (6) to promote education, research and dissemination of information on human rights;
- (7) to promote cooperation and coordination among government agencies, private organizations, and other organizations in the field of human rights;
- (8) to prepare an annual report for the appraisal of situations in the sphere of human rights in the country and submit it to the National Assembly;
- (9) other powers and duties as provided by the law.

In the performance of its duties, the National Human Rights Commission shall also have regard to the interests of the country and the public.

The National Human Rights Commission has the power to demand relevant documents or evidence from any person or summon any person to give statements of fact and has other powers for the purpose of performing its duties as provided by the law.

3. National Economic and Social Advisory Council

Section 258. The National Economic and Social Advisory Council has the duty to provide advice and make suggestions to the Council of Ministers with regard to economic and social issues and relevant laws.

The economic and social development plans or other plans as provided by law have to be approved by the National Economic and Social Advisory Council prior to their implementation.

The organization's composition, powers and duties, and functioning shall be in accordance with the provisions of the law.

The Office of the National Economic and Social Advisory Council shall have autonomy in personnel administration, budget and other activities as provided by law.

CHAPTER XII

INSPECTION OF THE EXERCISE OF STATE POWER

Part 1

Scrutiny Of Assets

Section 259. Persons holding the following political positions shall submit an account showing particulars of their assets and liabilities and those of their spouses and children who have not yet become sui juris to the National Counter Corruption Commission each time taking or vacating office:

- (1) Prime Minister;
- (2) Minister;
- (3) Member of the House of Representatives;
- (4) Senator;
- (5) Other political official;
- (6) Local administrator and member of a local assembly as provided by law.

The account under paragraph one shall be submitted together with supporting documents proving the actual existence of such assets and liabilities as well as a copy of the personal income tax return of the previous fiscal year.

The submission of an account showing the particulars of assets and liabilities under paragraph one and paragraph two shall include the assets which the political office holder has entrusted to others or are in possession and care of others, directly or otherwise.

Section 260. The account showing the particulars of assets and liabilities under Section 259 shall disclose the particulars of assets and liabilities actually existing as of the date of submission, and shall be submitted within specified periods as follows:

- (1) Taking office: within 30 days as from the date of taking office;
- (2) Vacating office: within 30 days as from the date of the vacation;
- (3) In the case where the person under Section 259, who has already submitted the account, dies while being in office or before submitting the same after vacating office, an heir or an administrator of an estate of such person shall submit an account showing the particulars of assets and liabilities existing on the date of such person's death within 90 days as from the date of the death.

The holder of a position of Prime Minister, Minister, local administrator, member of a local assembly, or person holding a political position, shall re-submit an account showing the particulars of assets under (2) and liabilities within 30 days after one year of vacating office.

Section 261. The account showing the particulars of assets and liabilities, along with supporting documents of the Prime Minister, Ministers, members of the House of Representatives, members of the Senate, shall be disclosed to the public within 30 days from the closing date of account submission. The account of other political office holders shall be disclosed only if such disclosure is useful in considering or deciding a case, or at the request of the Court, or interested party, or the National Counter Corruption Commission.

The President of the National Counter Corruption Commission shall convene a meeting of the Commission to determine the accuracy and the actual existence of the assets and liabilities declared without delay.

Section 262. In the case where the submission of the account is made by reason of vacation of office or death of a person holding a political position, the National Counter Corruption Commission shall inspect the change of assets and liabilities of such person and prepare a report of the inspection for publication in the Government Gazette.

In the case where it appears that the amount of assets of the person under paragraph one has increased abnormally, the President of the National Counter Corruption Commission shall send all the documents together with the inspection report to the Prosecutor General to institute an action in the Supreme Court of Justice's Criminal Division for Persons Holding Political Positions so that if guilty as charged the increased portion of the assets shall go to the State. The provisions of Section 272 paragraph 5 shall apply mutatis mutandis.

Section 263. A holder of a political position who intentionally fails to submit an account showing assets and liabilities and supporting documents as statutorily required, or intentionally submits the same with false statements, or conceals facts that should be revealed, shall vacate office as from the date of the expiration of the time limit for the submission under Section 251, or as from the date such act is discovered, as the case may be.

If such case under paragraph one occurs, the National Counter Corruption Commission shall submit the case to the Supreme Court of Justice's Criminal Division for Persons Holding Political Positions for decision.

When the final judgment of the Supreme Court of Justice's Criminal Division for Persons Holding Political Positions said that any holder of the political position had violated under paragraph one, the provisions of Section 92 shall apply mutatis mutandis and that person shall be barred from taking political office or a position in a political party for 5 years as from the date of the decision.

Section 264. The provisions of Section 259, Section 260, Section 261 and paragraph 2, and Section 263 paragraph 1 shall apply to State officials as prescribed by the National Counter Corruption Commission, mutatis mutandis.

The National Counter Corruption Commission may disclose the account showing the particulars of assets and liabilities and the supporting documents submitted to an interested party if such disclosure is useful in the prosecution of a case or decision on an offence as provided in the organic Act on counter corruption.

Part 2

Acts Detrimental To Public Interests (Acts of Conflict of Interest)

Section 265. A member of the House of Representatives as a member of the Senate shall:

- (1) Not hold any position or have any function in any Government agency, State agency or State enterprise; or hold a position of member of a local assembly, be a local administrator or local government official;
- (2) Not receive, interfere, or intervene in the granting of any concession from the State, a State agency or State enterprise; or be a partner in contract in business with the attributes of economic monopoly with the State, a State agency or State enterprise; or a be a partner or shareholder in a partnership or company receiving such concession or be a party to the contract of that nature, directly or otherwise;
- (3) Not receive any special money or benefit from any State enterprise, over and above what the State agency or State enterprise pays to other persons in the normal course of business;
- (4) Not violated that prohibited by the section 48;

The provisions of this Section shall not apply in the case where a member of the House of Representatives or a member of the Senate receives pensions, gratuities, year's pensions from members of the Royal family, annuities or any other form of payment of the same nature, nor in the case where a member of the House of Representatives or a member of the Senate accepts or holds a position of committee member of the National Assembly, the House of Representatives or the Senate, or committee member appointed as a qualified person under the provisions of law or committee member appointed in the course of administering the State affairs.

The substance in (2), (3), and (4) shall apply to the spouse and offspring of a member of the House of Representatives or a member of the Senate as well as to other persons who are married partners or offspring of that member of the House of Representatives or that member of the Senate in the form of a assignee, collaborator, or assignee of the House of Representatives or the Senate.

Section 266. A member of the House of Representatives or a member of the Senate is not permitted to use his or her status or position of being a member of the House of Representatives or a member of the Senate to interfere or intervene for his or her personal benefits or others or a political party, directly or otherwise in the following matters:

- (1) Performance of civil service, or performance of routine duties of a civil servant, staff or employee of a civil service agency, State agency, State enterprise, business in which the State holds a majority stake, or local government;
- (2) Recruitment, appointment, reshuffle, transfer, promotion, and salary increase of a Government official holding a permanent position, receiving a salary and not being a political official, an official or employee of State agency, State enterprise, and business with the State as a majority stakeholder, or local government organization; or

- (3) Removal from office of a Government official holding a permanent position, receiving a salary and not being a political official, an official or employee of State agency, State enterprise, and business with the State as a majority stakeholder, or local government organization.

Section 267. The provisions of Section 265 shall apply to the Prime Minister and Ministers. Except for holding a position and performing duties according to the provisions of the law, the Prime Minister or Ministers are prohibited to hold a position in a partnership, company, or business enterprise pursuing profits or income to be shared, or be an employee of any person.

Section 268. The Prime Minister or Ministers are prohibited to do what is provided under Section 266, except in the exercise of powers and duties in administering the State affairs in accordance with a policy declared in the National Assembly as provided by law.

Section 269. The Prime Minister or a Minister shall not be a partner or shareholder of a partnership or a company, nor retain his or her being a partner or shareholder of a partnership or a company up to the limit permitted by law. If the Prime Minister or a Minister wishes to continue receiving the said benefits, the Prime Minister or a Minister must inform the President of the National Counter Corruption Commission within 30 days as from the date of the appointment, and transfer his or her shares in the partnership or company to a juristic person which manages assets for or on behalf of others as provided by law.

The Prime Minister or a Minister shall not engage in any act which, by its nature, is tantamount to administration or management of shares or affairs of the said partnership or company.

The provisions of this Section shall apply to the spouse and offspring that not become one's legal age of the Prime Minister and the Minister and the provisions of Section 259 paragraph 3 shall apply mutatis mutandis.

Part 3

Removal From Office

Section 270. The Senate shall have the power to remove from office persons in political or official positions, including Prime Minister, Minister, member of the House of Representatives, Senator, President of the Constitutional Court, President of the Supreme Court of Justice, President of the Supreme Administrative Court or Prosecutor General, for having become unusually wealthy indicative of possible commission of corruption, malfeasance in office or malfeasance in judicial office, or for an intentional exercise of power contrary to the provisions of the Constitution or law, or for serious violation, or non-compliance with the ethical standard.

The provisions under paragraph one shall also apply to the persons holding the following positions:

- (1) Judge of the Constitutional Court, Election Commissioner, Ombudsman, and member of the State Audit Commission;
- (2) Judge, public prosecutor or high-ranking official in accordance with the organic Act on counter corruption.

Section 271. Members of the House of Representatives of not less than one-fourth of the existing members of the House have the right to lodge with the President of the Senate a complaint requesting the Senate to pass a resolution under Section 274 to remove a person under Section 270 from office. The said request must clearly state the grounds of allegation and list the wrongful acts that the said person has allegedly committed.

Senators of not less than one-fourth of the existing members of the Senate shall have the right to lodge with the President of the Senate a complaint requesting the Senate to pass a resolution under Section 274 to remove a Senator from office.

Eligible voters of not fewer than 20,000 shall have the right to sign a petition to have a person in Section 270 removed from office under Section 164.

Section 272. Upon receipt of the request under Section 271, the President of the Senate shall refer the matter to the National Counter Corruption Commission for investigation without delay. After the investigation is completed, the National Counter Corruption Commission shall prepare a report thereon and submit it to the Senate. The said report shall clearly state which of the counts charged in the request are prima facie and which are not, and how reliable the evidence and witnesses are, along with a conclusion and recommendations of how to proceed next.

In the case where the National Counter Corruption Commission is of the opinion that a certain count or counts in the request are important, the National Counter Corruption Commission may make a separate report specifically on the said counts and submit it to the President of the Senate under paragraph one for consideration in advance if so wished.

If the National Counter Corruption Commission passes a resolution with a vote of no less than one-half of the existing Commissioners that the accusation has a prima facie case, the accused holder of office shall not, as from the date of such resolution, perform his or her duties until the Senate has passed its resolution. The President of the National Counter Corruption Commission shall submit the report, existing documents, and its opinion to the President of the Senate for proceeding in accordance with Section 264 and to the Prosecutor General for instituting prosecution in the Supreme Court of Justice's Criminal Division for Persons Holding Political Positions. [On the other hand], if the National Counter Corruption Commission is of the opinion that the accusation has no prima facie case, such accusation shall lapse.

In the case where the Prosecutor General is of the opinion that the report, documents and opinion submitted by the National Counter Corruption Commission under paragraph four are not sufficiently complete to institute prosecution, the Prosecutor General shall notify the National Counter Corruption Commission for further proceedings, specifying the incomplete items. In such case, the National Counter Corruption Commission and the Prosecutor General shall appoint a working committee, consisting of their representatives in an equal number, for collecting evidence so as to make it complete and submit it to the Prosecutor General for further prosecution. In the case where the working committee is unable to reach a decision on the prosecution, the National Counter Corruption Commission shall have the power to prosecute by itself, or appoint a lawyer to prosecute on its behalf.

Section 273. Upon receipt of the report under Section 272, the President of the Senate shall convoke a sitting of the Senate for considering the said matter without delay.

In the case where the National Counter Corruption Commission submits the report out of Parliamentary session of the Senate, the President of the Senate shall inform the President of the National Assembly in order to tender a petition to the King for issuance of a Royal Command convoking an extraordinary session of the National Assembly. The President of the National Assembly shall countersign the Royal Command.

Section 274. A Senator shall be free to cast a vote, which shall be by secret ballot. A resolution for the removal of any person from office shall have votes of no less than three-fifths of the total number of the existing members of the Senate.

A person who is removed from office shall vacate office or be released from government service as from the date of the Senate's resolution. Such person shall be deprived of political position or rights to work in government service for 5 years.

The Senate's resolution under this Section shall be final and no request for removal of such person from office shall be made on the same ground, albeit without prejudice to the trial of the Supreme Court of Justice's Criminal Division for Persons Holding Political Positions.

Part 4

Criminal Proceedings Against Persons Holding Political Positions

Section 275. In the case where Prime Minister, Minister, member of the House of Representatives, Senator, or another political office has been accused of becoming unusually wealthy, or of malfeasance in office according to the penal code or of dishonest act in the performance of duties or corruption according to other laws, the Supreme Court of Justice's Criminal Division for Persons Holding Political Positions shall have the competent jurisdiction to try and adjudicate the case.

The provisions in paragraph one shall apply to the said individual or others including the ring leader, instigator or supporter, giver and procurer or pledgor of assets or other benefits to the person in paragraph one offered as an incentive to act or omit the act or to delay the act contrary to his or her duties.

The petition to the National Counter Corruption Commission may disclose the account showing the particulars of assets and liabilities and the supporting documents submitted to an interested party if such disclosure is useful in the prosecution of a case or decision on an offence as provided in the organic Act on counter corruption.

The request to the National Counter Corruption Commission to proceed under section 250 (2) shall provided in the organic Act on counter corruption that said to prevent and suppress the corruption.

Section 276. In a case where a general meeting of the Supreme Court of Justice agrees to proceed a petition lodged under Section 275 paragraph four, the general meeting of the Supreme Court of Justice shall appoint an independent investigator who is politically impartial and renowned for his honesty, or refer the matter to the National Counter Corruption Commission to conduct an investigation under Section 250 (4) instead of appointing an independent investigator.

Qualifications, duties and power, investigation procedure, and other proceeding necessary for independent investigator shall be in accordance with the provisions of the law.

When the independent investigator inquires into the facts, summarizes the case, and prepares an opinion, if the accusation is prima facie, the reports and existing documents including the opinion shall be sent to the president of the Senate to proceed under Section 273 and send the case summary and the opinion to the Attorney-General to enter a charge before the Supreme Court of Justice's Criminal Division for Persons Holding Political Positions. The provision in Section 272 paragraph five shall apply mutatis mutandis.

Section 277. In a trial, the Supreme Court of Justice's Criminal Division for Persons Holding Political Positions shall rely primarily on the case of the National Counter Corruption Commission or the independent investigator's as the case may be, and may conduct an investigation in order to obtain additional facts or evidence as it sees fit.

The procedure of the Supreme Court of Justice's Criminal Division for Persons Holding Political Positions shall be in accordance with an organic bill on the criminal procedure for persons holding political positions, and the provisions of Section 213 shall apply to the performance of the duties of the Supreme Court of Justice's Criminal Division for Persons Holding Political Positions mutatis mutandis.

The provisions on the immunity of members of the House of Representatives and senators under Section 131 shall not apply to a trial of the Supreme Court of Justice's Criminal Division for Persons Holding Political Positions.

Section 278. An adjudication of a case shall be made by a majority of votes; provided that every judge constituting the quorum shall prepare his written opinion and make oral statements to the meeting prior to the passing of a resolution.

The orders and judgments of the Supreme Court of Justice's Criminal Division for Persons Holding Political Positions shall be disclosed to the public and considered as final, except in compliance with the provisions of paragraph three.

In the case where the convicted of the Supreme Court of Justice's Criminal Division for Persons Holding Political Positions has acquired new witnesses or evidence which might substantially alter the fact of the case, he or she may appeal to a general meeting of the Supreme Court of Justice within 30 days of the date of the issuance of judgment.

The rules for appeal and judicial procedure of the general meeting of the Supreme Court of Justice shall be in accordance with the rules of procedure set by the general meeting of the Supreme Court of Justice.

CHAPTER XIII

MORALITY OF PERSONS HOLDING POLITICAL POSITIONS, GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS

Section 279. The ethical standard for persons holding political positions, government officials, and State officials of all categories shall be in conformity with the established Code of Ethics.

There shall be mechanisms and working systems to ensure the effective enforcement of the ethical standard under paragraph one, including penalties based on the severity of the case.

Violation of or failure to observe the ethical standard in paragraph one shall be regarded as a disciplinary infringement. In the case where persons holding political positions violate or fail to observe the Code of Ethics, the ombudsmen shall report to the National Assembly, the Council of Ministers, or the local assembly concerned as the case may be. Serious offenses shall be referred to the National Counter Corruption Commission for proceedings, which can be used as grounds for removal from office under Section 270.

The consideration, recruitment, selection, and appointment of a person to a position connected with the exercise of State powers, including transfers, promotions, salary increase, and punishment, shall be in accordance with the morality system and with due consideration to the ethical conduct of the said person.

Section 280. For the benefits of proceedings under this chapter, the ombudsmen shall have the powers and duties to advise or make recommendations on the preparation or improvement of the Code of Ethics under Section 279, paragraph one; to promote the awareness of ethics among persons holding political positions, government officials, and State officials; and to report any acts of violations of the Code of Ethics to those responsible for the enforcement of the Code of Ethics may proceed to ensure compliance under Section 279, paragraph three.

In the case of serious violation or failure to observe the ethical standard, or if there is a reasonable ground to believe that the actions taken by responsible authorities prove unjust, the ombudsmen may conduct an investigation and disclose the results of the finding to the public.

CHAPTER XIV

LOCAL GOVERNMENT

Section 281. Subject to Section 1, the State shall give autonomy to localities in accordance with the principle of self-government according to the will of the people in the locality and encourage local governments to serve as the main working units in providing public services and participating in local problem resolutions.

Any locality with attributes that meet the conditions of self-government has the right to be established as a local government organization as provided by the law.

Section 282. The supervision of a local government organization must be exercised in so far as it is necessary, and must have clear rules, procedure, and conditions which are consistent with and suitable for the structure of a local government, and must be for protecting local interests or the interests of the country as a whole, provided that it must not affect the substantive principle of self-government according to the will of the people in the locality, nor go beyond the provisions of law.

For the supervision under paragraph one, there shall be a central standard as a guideline for local governments to choose for their own practice, in which the suitability and differences in development and management capability of each local government structure shall be taken into consideration, and which does not affect the ability of decision-making according to the needs of the local government. Mechanisms to check the performance of duties should be established with the people as its principle.

Section 283. A local government shall have powers and duties to maintain and provide public services for the benefits of the local people. All local government organizations shall have autonomy in laying down policies for their governance, administration, provision of public services, personnel administration, money and finance; and shall have specific powers and duties in conformity with the development of provinces and the country as a whole.

Local government organizations shall receive support and encouragement to promote their strength in independent administration and effectively respond to the needs of people in the locality. A local financial system shall be developed to facilitate the provision of full range of public services. For cost effectiveness and efficiency of service, there shall be an effort or joint effort to establish bodies in charge of providing public services.

There shall be laws governing the steps and procedures for decentralization to delineate the powers and duties and income distribution between the State and provincial governments and the local government organization; and among the local government organizations themselves, which must take into account the increase of power decentralization in accordance with capability of each local government organization structure. There shall also be a monitoring and evaluating system carried out under the provisions of law by a committee which shall consist of representatives of relevant government agencies, representatives of local government organizations, and persons with qualifications as stipulated by law, in equal numbers.

There shall be laws on local income to regulate powers and duties in collecting taxes and duties and other income of local government organizations, which have appropriate rules for different types of taxes and duties, government resource management, balanced income and expenses under the powers and duties of local government organizations. For this purpose, levels of local economic development, financial status of the local government organization, and the government's financial stability shall be taken into account.

In the case where there has already been a delineation of powers and duties and income distribution to local government organizations, the committee under paragraph three must regularly review the case on a period of not more than five years, to consider the appropriation of the designation of powers and duties, and past income distributions. The increase of power decentralization to local government organizations must be taken into account with high importance.

The proceeding under paragraph five shall take effect after the permission of the council of ministers and the report sent to the National Assembly.

Section 284. A local government organization shall have a local assembly and local administrative committee or local administrators.

Members of a local assembly shall be elected.

A local administrative committee or local administrators shall be directly elected by the people or approved by the local assembly.

An election of members of a local assembly and local administrative committee or local administrators who must be directly elected by the people shall be made by direct suffrage and secret ballot.

Members of a local assembly, local administrative committee, or local administrators shall hold office for a period of four years.

A member of a local administrative committee or a local administrator shall not be a government official holding a permanent position or receiving a salary, or an official or employee of a State agency, State enterprise, or local government organization, and shall not have a conflict of interests in holding a position under the provisions of the law.

The qualifications of a person having the right to vote and a person having the right to apply for candidacy in an election of members of a local assembly, members of a local administrative committee, and local administrators, and the rules and procedures shall be in accordance with the provisions of the law.

In the case where there is a dissolution of a local assembly or local administrators have vacated the office and a local administrative committee or local administrators must be temporarily appointed, the provisions of paragraph three and paragraph six shall not apply, as provided by the law.

A special form of a local government organization with different administrative structure from the provisions of this Section can be established in accordance with the provisions of the law, but the local assembly or local administrators must be elected.

Section 265, Section 266, Section 267 and Section 268 shall apply to members of a local assembly, local administrative committee, or local administrators as the case may be mutatis mutandis.

Section 285. If eligible voters in a local government organization consider that a member of the local assembly or local administrator of that local government organization should not resume office, they shall have the right to vote for the removal of such person from office. The number of eligible petitioners, rules and procedures for petition, scrutiny, and voting shall be in accordance with the provisions of the law.

Section 286. Eligible voters in a local government organization shall have the right to lodge with the president of the local assembly a request for consideration in issuing local ordinances.

The number of eligible petitioners, rules and procedures for petition and scrutiny shall be in accordance with the provisions of the law.

Section 287. People living in the locality have the right to participate in the administration of local government organizations. The local government organizations shall arrange for public participation.

In the case where action of the local government organization will substantially affect the life and living conditions of the people in the locality, the local government organization must provide information in details to the people before taking any action for a suitable period of time. In the case deemed reasonable or requested by eligible voters in the locality, public hearings must be held prior to that action, or the people shall be allowed to have their say in a referendum under the provisions of the law.

Local government organizations shall prepare performance reports on their budgets, expenditure and year-round performance for public disclosure so that the people can get involved in the examination and supervision of the management of local government organizations.

For the budget preparation of a local government organization under paragraph three, the provisions of Section 168, paragraph six, shall apply mutatis mutandis.

Section 288. The appointment and removal of government officials and employees of a local government organization shall be in accordance with the need of and suitability for each locality. Personnel administration in local government organizations must have a consistent standard, and may enjoy cooperative development or personnel exchanges between local government organizations. Prior approval shall be obtained from the local government official committee, which is a central body for local personnel management as provided by the law.

In personnel administration of the local government organization, there shall be an organization to uphold a system of good governance among the local government officials, to establish a system to protect governance and ethics in personnel management as provided by the law.

The local government official committee under paragraph one shall consist of an equal number of representatives of relevant government agencies, representatives of local government organizations, and persons with qualifications as stipulated by law, as provided by the law.

The transfer, promotion, salary increase, and punishment of the officials and employees of a local government organization shall be in accordance with the provisions of the law.

Section 289. A local government organization has the duty to conserve the local arts, customs, knowledge and good culture.

A local government organization has the right to provide education and professional training in accordance with the suitability to and the needs of that locality and participate in the provision of education and training by the State with regard to the national education standards and system.

In providing education and training in the locality under paragraph two, the local government organization shall also have regard to the conservation of the arts, customs, knowledge, and good culture.

Section 290. For the purpose of promoting and maintaining the quality of the environment, a local government organization has powers and duties as provided by the law.

The law under paragraph one shall at least contain the following elements as its substance:

- (1) Management, preservation, and exploitation of natural resources and environment in the area of the locality;
- (2) Participation in the preservation of natural resources and environment outside the area of the locality only in the case where the living of the inhabitants in the area may be affected;
- (3) Participation in considering an initiation of any project or activity outside the area of the locality which may affect the quality of the environment, health, or sanitary conditions of the inhabitant in the area.
- (4) Participation of the people in the locality.

CHAPTER XV

AMENDMENT OF CONSTITUTION

Section 291. An amendment of the Constitution may be made only under the following rules and procedures:

- (1) A motion for an amendment must be proposed either by the Council of Ministers or members of the House of Representatives numbering not less than one-fifth of the total number of the existing members of the House of Representatives or members of both Houses numbering not less than one-fifth of the total number of existing members thereof or not less than 50,000 eligible voters in accordance with the law on a petition for the proposal of bills.

A motion for an amendment that has the effect of changing the democratic regime of government with the King as Head of the State or changing the form of the State shall be prohibited;

(2) A motion for amendment must be proposed in the form of a draft Constitution Amendment, and the National Assembly shall consider it in three readings;

(3) the voting in the first reading for acceptance in principle shall be by roll call and open voting, and the amendment must be approved by votes numbering not less than one-half of the total number of the existing members of both Houses;

(4) the consideration in the second reading shall be made section by section and a public hearing shall be held to seek viewpoints from voters who have proposed the amendment;

The voting in the second reading for consideration section by section shall be decided by a simple majority of votes;

(5) at the conclusion of the second reading, there shall be an interval of fifteen days, after which the National Assembly shall proceed with its third reading;

(6) the voting in the third and final reading shall be by roll call and open voting, and its promulgation as the Constitution must be approved by votes of more than one-half of the total number of existing members of both Houses;

(7) after the resolution has been passed in accordance with the aforementioned rules and procedures, the draft Constitution Amendment shall be presented to the King, and the provisions of Section 150 and Section 151 shall apply mutatis mutandis.

TRANSITIONAL PROVISIONS

Section 292. The Privy Council which exists on the announcement of the effective date of this constitution shall be the Privy Council by the provisions of this constitution.

Section 293. The National Legislative Assembly as per The Constitution for the Kingdom of Thailand (the temporary one) B.E.2549 shall perform its duty as The National Assembly, House of the Representatives and House of the Senators by the provisions of this constitution until the first sitting of the National Assembly is held in accordance with Section 127.

During the period of time under paragraph one, if any provision of this constitution or of other laws requires the President of The National Assembly, the President of House of the Representatives or the President of Senate to countersign His Royal Command, the President of The National Assembly shall countersign His Royal Command thereof.

For the first period of commencement, if there is still no House of Senate and it is necessary to hold the first sitting of The National Assembly in accordance with Section 127, The National Legislative Assembly shall perform the duty of the House of Senate, with the exception of the consideration to appoint or to remove a person from an office as provided by this Constitution until the House of Senate comes into existence under this constitution, and any affair which has been carried out by The National Legislative Assembly during the said period of time, shall take effect as being done by the House of Senate, and in case that any provision of this constitution or other laws requires the President of the House of Senate to countersign His Royal Command, the President of The National Legislative Assembly shall countersign His Royal Command.

It is prohibited not to apply with the provisions of Section 93, Section 94, Section 101, Section 102, Section 106, Section 109, Section 111, Section 113, Section 114, Section 115, Section 119, Section 120, Section 197 paragraph four, Section 261 and the provisions of any laws which forbid persons to take a political position, enforcing the position taking of members of The National Legislative Assembly.

It is required to apply with the provision of Section 153 to enforce the termination of The National Legislative Assembly mutatis mutandis.

Section 294. The Constitution Drafting Assembly and the Constitution Drafting Committee under the Constitution for the Kingdom of Thailand (the temporary one) B.E.2549 shall come to an end upon the announcement of the effective date of this constitution.

For the sake of getting rid of any gain and loss, it is prohibited the Constitution Drafting Committee to contest in the election for the members of the House of Representatives, or to take any post as members of the House of Senate within two years from date of leaving the position under paragraph one.

Section 295. The National Legislative Assembly shall take consideration of the drafts of the Organic Act on the election of members of the House of Representatives and selection of the Senate, the Organic Act on political parties, and the Organic Act on the Election Commission, which have been received from the Constitution Drafting Committee, and shall complete it within the period of time as specified by the Constitution for the Kingdom of Thailand (the temporary one) B.E.2549.

In case of having passed the timeframe in paragraph one, yet the National Legislative Assembly still has not completed the consideration of the said organic acts, the President of the National Legislative Assembly shall submit them to the King, within seven days, for His signature, and to regard it as the National Legislative Assembly having approved those drafts of the Organic Acts.

During the time when the Organic Act on political parties and the Organic Act on the Election Commission as per paragraph one are not taking effect yet, the Organic Act on political parties B.E.2541 and the Organic Act on the Election Commission B.E.2541 shall be in continual force until the said Organic Acts shall take effect.

Section 296. The election of members of the House of Representatives under this constitution shall be carried out with completion within ninety days as well as the acquisition of the Senate under this constitution to be completed within one hundred and fifty days, as from date of Section 295 of the Organic Act taking effect.

To participate in the first general election of members of the House of Representatives after the announcement of the effective date of this constitution the qualified applicants for the election shall be members of any one political party for not less than thirty days up to the date of the election. As for the period of time under Section 101 (4) (Gor.), a period of one year shall be applied and the period of time under Section 101 (4) (Khor.) and (Ngor.), a period of two years shall be applied.

For the first period of commencement, those ex members of the Senate being elected for the first time under the Constitution for the Kingdom of Thailand B.E.2540 are prohibited from becoming members of the Senate to be acquired for the first time under this constitution, and it is prohibited not to apply with the provision of Section 115 (9) and Section 116 paragraph two, for the enforcement of the ex members of the Senate who were elected for the last time under the Constitution for the Kingdom of Thailand B.E.2540.

Section 297. For the first period of commencement, members of the Senate from appointment shall take office for a term of three years as from date of becoming a membership and it is prohibited to apply with the provision forbidding to take office continually beyond one term, for enforcement with the said persons for the next appointment after ending of their membership.

Section 298. The Cabinet which is taking office on the announcement of the effective date of this constitution, remains the Cabinet under the provision of this constitution and shall vacate its office en masse as soon as the newly appointed Cabinet under this constitution takes the office.

The Council for National Security under the Constitution for the Kingdom of Thailand (the temporary one) B.E.2549 shall vacate its office en masse together with the Cabinet which is in the office on the date of announcement of this constitution.

It is prohibited to apply with the provision of Section 171 paragraph two, Section 172, Section 174, and Section 182 (4) (7) and (8) for enforcement of taking an office of the Prime Minister and the ministers who exercise the executive administration on the announcement of the effective date of this constitution.

Section 299. The Ombudsmen who are in the office upon the announcement of the effective date of this constitution shall be the Ombudsmen under the provision of this constitution and shall continue to take their office until their term expires, by counting the term as from date of appointment by HM the King and the said Ombudsmen shall make selection among themselves and to complete it within sixty days as from the announcement of the effective date of this constitution and the provision of Section 242 paragraph two and paragraph three shall apply mutatis mutandis.

Section 300. The Constitutional Tribunal under the Constitution (Interim) B.E. 2549 (2006) shall be the Constitutional Court under this Constitution. The President of the Supreme Court of Justice shall serve as President of the Constitutional Court, and the President of the Supreme Administrative Court shall serve as Vice President. However, the judges of the Supreme Court of Justice and the judges of the Supreme Administrative Court elected under section 35 of the Constitution (Interim) B.E. 2549 (2006) shall continue to serve as judges of the Constitutional Court until the appointment of new judges of the Court under this Constitution is made. The appointment shall not take more than one hundred and fifty days as from the date of appointments of the President of the House of Representatives and the Leader of the Opposition in the House of Representatives following the first general election of MPs under this Constitution.

Provisions of section 205 (3), section 207 (1) (2), and section 209 (5) shall not apply to the holding of office of judges of the Constitutional Court under paragraph one.

Provisions of section 35, paragraph two, paragraph three, and paragraph four of the Constitution (Interim) B.E. 2549 (2006) shall remain in force until the organic Act on the Procedures of the Constitutional Court is enacted.

Any case or other still pending under the purview of the Constitutional Tribunal under paragraph one shall be proceeded by the Constitutional Court under this Constitution, and after the appointment of judges of the Constitutional Court under this Constitution, all the pending cases and matters shall be transferred to the authority and duty of the newly appointed Constitutional Court.

During the period of no enactment of the organic Act on the Procedures of the Constitutional Court, the Constitutional Court shall have the power to issue its stipulations on the procedures and the making of verdict. However, it is required that the said organic Act must be enacted within one year as from the date of the promulgation of this Constitution.

Section 301. The selection of the State Audit Commission and the Auditor-General shall be made within one hundred and twenty days as from the date of appointments of the President of the House of Representatives and the Leader of the Opposition in the House of Representatives following the first general election of MPs under this Constitution. If there is still no President of the Constitutional Court coming from the selection under this Constitution, the Selective Committee for members of the State Audit Commission and the Auditor-General shall consist of the existing members.

During the period of no State Audit Commission, the Auditor-General shall exercise the authority on behalf of the President of the State Audit Commission and on behalf of the State Audit Commission.

Section 302. The following organic Acts shall remain in force under the conditions prescribed in this section;

- (1) The organic Act on the Ombudsmen B.E. 2542 (1999) - President of the Ombudsmen shall serve as the caretaker under this organic Act.
- (2) The organic Act on Counter Corruption B.E. 2542 (1999) - President of the National Counter Corruption Commission shall serve as the caretaker under this organic Act.
- (3) The organic Act on State Audit B.E. 2542 (1999) - President of the State Audit Commission shall serve as the caretaker under this organic Act.
- (4) The organic Act on the Criminal Procedures against Persons Holding Political Positions B.E. 2542 (1999) - President of the Supreme Court of Justice shall serve as the caretaker under this organic Act.

An amendment of organic Act by an Act enacted during the enforcement of the Constitution (Interim) B.E. 2549 (2006) shall constitute an amendment of organic Act under this Constitution.

The caretakers under the organic Acts under paragraph one shall make adjustments to their organic Acts in accordance with what is prescribed by this Constitution within one year as from the date of the promulgation of this Constitution. In the case where there is no one serving as such caretaker, the one-year time frame shall begin as from the date of his appointment.

The House of Representatives shall complete the consideration of the organic law bills under this Constitution within one hundred and twenty days as from the date of the introduction of the bills to the House of Representative, and the Senate shall complete the consideration of these bills within ninety days as from the day of the introduction of the bills to the Senate.

The resolution approving or disapproving the amendment of the organic law bills shall be passed by the votes of not less than half of the members of each House.

The Election Commission shall prepare an organic law bill on referendum in accordance with what is prescribed by this Constitution. Provisions of paragraph three, paragraph four, and paragraph five shall apply mutatis mutandis.

Section 303. In the initial period, the Council of Ministers assuming the administration of the State affairs in the wake of the first general election under this Constitution shall prepare or make adjustments to the followings laws within the time prescribed;
